ARREST HALTS ALLEGED BANK ROBBER'S TRIP

Man Sought for Months in Maryland Theft Is Taken at Airport.

HAD ARRANGED PLANE FLIGHT TO NEW YORK

Washington Police Aid Arlington Authorities After Tip From Baltimore.

Sought for months in connection with the daring daylight holdup of the Glyndon ank in GBlyndon, Md., by two heavily armed robbers who escaped with $9,000, Edwin Monroe, alias Edward William Bock, 30 years old, was arrested yesterday morning at Washington Airport while awaiting departure in a New York-bound plane.

Acting on a tip that the man was here, supposedly girded with a steel vest and bristling with revolvers to fight capture, four Baltimore police officers upon departing from that city to speed to Washington, telephoned police headquarters to take the suspect at any cost.

Headquarters Detective Sergts. Howard Ogle, Robert Barrett and O. W. Mansfield, with Lieut. H. D. Secrest, rushed to the airport and joined Arlington County Motorcycle Policemen John R. Burke and Hugh Jones.

Arrested Without Struggle.

Spotting the man out of a crowd of about 100 persons as he sat inside the building, reading a Baltimore newspaper, while awaiting flight on the 12:30 o'clock plane, they closed in carefully and made the arest. He proved unarmed and carried only an inconsequential amount of money.

Taken to the Arlington County Jail, Monroe was booked as a fugitive from justice, and turned over to Washington police, who delivered him to the arriving Baltimore policemen, Chief Inspector C. G. Henry, Lieut. Cornelius Roche and Detective Sergts. William Pesley and Dave Wingrove.

He was taken to Baltimore, where he continued to maintain silence, except to identify himself as Monroe and declare that he had intended flying to New York and then proceed to Cleveland.

Served Prison Term, Claim.

Baltimore police reparted that he had served a five-year term in Maryland on burglary charges some years ago. They said Monroe, his wife and baby had flown from Cleveland to Pittsburgh last Friday and that the wife and baby had gone to Baltimore, while Monroe proceeded here.

Last October 10 the Glyndon Bank was robbed by two unmasked men who boldly entered the building, flourished pistols and scooped up the money after they had held the cashier and two clerks at bay and herded them into a vault. They made their getaway in an automobile bearing South Carolina tags.

Three Men Killed In Florida Blaze

One Burned to Death and Two Die After Leaps in St. Augustine.

St. Augustine, Fla., March 29 (A.P.).—Three men were killed and several injured today in a fire which destroyed the Florida Hotel, a small structure in the center of the city. An unidentified man was burned to death. John Dubolse, Northampton, Mass., and Ed Delaney, whose only known address was as St. Johns Park, scene of the horse racing meet which ended yesterday, were fatally injured in leaping from windows.

John Roth, Miami, Jack Taylor, Miami, and Ralph Baker, Detroit, were in a hospital but were said not to be injured seriously.

Calvin Coolidge Says:

Far out in the islands of the Pacific the soul of Brother Joseph Dutton has been released from the limitations of this earth. Bearer of an old New England name, born in Vermont in 1843, captain of a Wisconsin Company in the Civil War, novice in a Trappist monastery in middle life, voluntary missionary to the lepers of Molokai for over forty-four years, dedicated to poverty, surrounded by hopeless misery, yet joyously consecrated through the years to the things of the spirit, this man died a saintly world figure.

Amid all the pretensions of the present era, the pride, the guile, the strife, here was a reality. Wherever his story is told men will pause to worship. His faith, his work, his self-sacrifice appeal to people because there is always something of the same spirit in them. Therein lies the moral power of the world. He realized a vision which we all have.

The universal response to the example of his life is another demonstration of what mankind regard as just and true and holy. He showed the power of what is good and the binding force of the common brotherhood of man.

MacArthur Indorses Flag Education Move

Tomorrow Noon Closing Time for Handing In Essays.

GEN. DOUGLAS MacARTHUR.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff of the United States Army, yesterday added his indorsement to the project of the United States Flag Association, with the cooperation of The Washington Post, for the education, first, of the childhood of America, and, later on, of the other countries of the earth, in world friendship based on rational patriotism, through sending of American children as "Envoys of Friendship" on a goodwill tour to England and France.

"No one desires peace more than the soldier," Gen. MacArthur stated in a letter to Col. James A. Moss, president general of the Flag Association, "for he must pay the greatest penalty in war. Our Army is maintained solely for the preservation of peace or for the restoration of peace after it has been lost by statesmen or by others.

"I wish you every success in your great undertaking."

Gen. MacArthur's letter reads:

"I have examined with much interest the brochure you were good enough to send me describing the movement which the United States Flag Association is inaugurating this year for the education, first, of the childhood of America, and, later on, of the other countries of the earth, in world friendship based on rational patriotism.

"I agree with Secretary of the Interior Wilbur's statement in the brochure to the effect that only through education, which in time will control the war instinct that is innate in man, can lasting peace be established among the nations of the world. However, Gen. Pershing rightly says in his indorsement, which also appears in the brochure, it will probably require education extending over several generations before this end can be achieved.

"No one desires peace more than the soldier, for he must pay the greatest penalty in war. Our Army is maintained solely for the preservation

GANG GETS $50,000 IN STORE AT CHICAGO

Seven Bandits Crack Safe and Escape With Loot; Guards Left Tied.

Chicago, March 29 (U.P.).—A gang of seven bandits took possession of the new $4,000,000 Wieboldt department store at Sixty-third and Halsted streets for seven hours today, blew the safe and escaped with an estimated $35,000 in cash.

P. C. Dempsey, credit manager of the Weiboldt Co., said the robbers also took $35,000 in checks. The robbery was one of 48 reported in Chicago during the last 24 hours.

The bandits overpowered Watchman Henry McIvor and Engineer Chris Swanson, then forced McIvor to make his regular rounds of the building, punching his time clocks, so as not to start a burglar alarm.

After daybreak, when the alarm system stopped working, the invaders tied McIvor and Swanson to chairs and then proceeded leisurely to crack the vault.

They worked until 2 p. m., finally swung the massive door and made off with yesterday's receipts, estimated by store officials at $35,000. It was several hours later before McIvor managed to free himself and call the police.

The latter said they believed one of the bandits secreted himself in the store yesterday before closing time and let his companions in some time after midnight.

Bandits attempted to rob another Weiboldt department store on the West Side of Chicago recently, but were repulsed in a wild-west shooting spree with police on a heavily traveled street. One officer was wounded and one of the bandits later found dead in an abandoned automobile.

Absence of finger prints and the accuracy with which today's bandits drilled the safe door led police to believe that the men were expert crackmen, returned to their old occupation, now that the liquor business in Chicago is no longer profitable.

Authorities explained that most of the old time safe blowers had gone into the "liquor racket" with the advent of prohibition, but that lately many of them had been forced to quit because of hte low retail prices of intoxicants in the Chicago area.

Cunard Balance Is Released.

Liverpool, March 29 (A.P.).—The Cunard Steamship Co., which announced last week that no dividend could be paid this year on ordinary shares, has published a 1930 statement showing a net profit of $93,005, which, with a balance of $1,976,325 from 1929, makes the total of $2,069,230 from which to pay a dividend on preferred shares, leaving $1,394,335 carried forward.

NEW SNOWSTORMS GRIP MIDDLE WEST

Rock Mountain Section Is Laboring Under Drifts; 3 Sheep Men Die.

Kansas City, Mar. 29 (A.P.).—Fresh snow fell today in the Rocky Mountains on the heels of a spring blizzard which took at least sixteen lives there and in the prairie States.

Today's fall, however, was accompanied by moderate temperatures, and while hampering reestablishment of communications with isolated communities, where it is feared more dead may be found, was not expected to bring the tragedy of last week's storm.

Snow was falling over all Colorado, most of Wyoming, western Montana and northern New Mexico. The sun shone in Texas, Oklahoma, eastern and central Kansas and Missouri, where the bitter cold relinquished its grip. Snow was reported in northwestern Kansas.

To the human death toll of a storm which rose in sudden fury in the Rocky Mountains swept with rain, snow and zero temperatures upon an unsuspecting people preparing for spring planting, was added a tremendous loss of live stock and the killing of much fruit.

The latest additions to the list of dead were three sheep herders. The body of Charles Beach, 50, Wyoming herder, was found a half mile from his camp wagon, at which searchers found his 4-year-old son and dog safe. Juan Selgado and an unidentified herder were the New Mexico victims.

Today a barren snow-covered canyon near Max, Nebr., revealed the body of Boyd Edwards, 7-year-old schoolboy, sought by hundreds of persons for three days.

The death of Beach was attributed by searchers who found his body to his failure to take his dog with him as he sought to follow sheep separating in the driving snow. He had left the dog at his camp wagon to guard his little son.

Train communication from Colorado into Kansas City was reported near normal. Much bus travel still was held up by drifts on highways.

Jealousy Is Blamed As Jersey Man Is Shot

Camden, N. J., March 29 (U.P.).—James Thurwanger, 29, was shot and seriously wounded at a party at Barrington early today. Police held Howard J. Miller, 30, claiming he shot Thurwanger because of jealousy. Miller's wife, from whom he had been separated for three months, won local fame as "Miss Barrington" in Camden County beauty contests.

The shooting occurred at the home of Mrs. La Verna Saul, Mrs. Miller's sister.

Former Teacher Arrested In Theft of Library Books

Malcolm Young Is Caught in South; Charged With Taking 300 Volumes.

MALCOLM M. YOUNG.

Malcolm M. Young, 26-year-old former teacher in the District high schools, who is under indictment here for the theft of more than 300 books from the Congressional Library, was arrested yesterday by the police of Newton, N. C., and detained for Washington authorities.

Detective Sergeant Michael Dowd, of headquarters, will leave today for Newton to bring the prisoner here for trial. The books, mostly on legal subjects, were found in the basement of an apartment house here on February 24.

Investigation showed that Young had once occupied an apartment in the house.

Young, who was an honor student at the University of North Carolina, was dismissed by the school board at the conclusion of his probationary period. He is said to have opposed the high school cadet corps and was a pacifist.

INDIAN RIOTING SPREADS WHILE CONGRESS SITS

Official Dead Estimate at Cawnpore Is Now 200.

CONGRESS DEMANDS COMPLETE FREEDOM

Dominant Note for Britain to Recognize India as Own Mistress.

Allahabad, India, March 29 (A.P.).—The Pioneer's correspondent at Cawnpore says rioting has spread across the Ganges from Cawnpore and disturbances have broken out at Unao. Employes from the Elgin Mills reported furious battles progressing between villages on the opposite bank of the river.

Many bodies of victims were said to have been thrown into the river. Cawnpore itself, where the total death roll in recent disturbances is now officially estimated at 200, was reported to be quiet.

More than 1,000 persons were injured last week at Cawnpore in the orgy of communal rioting, which also resulted in looting and burning of homes.

Karachi, India, March 29 (A.P.).—Sixty thousand delegates to the Forty-fifth annual session of the Indian National Congress met here tonight with complete unqualified independence for India as their immediate objective.

Colored Lamps Light Scene.

All day long the sun had beaten down on the vast open stadium, but Valladhai Patel, the president, did not call the congress to order until after sundown. As darkness fell thousands of red, white and green electric lamps illuminated the sea of brown faces surging about the platform in the center.

Mahatma Gandhi, in a flowing white garment, sat with his cabinet on the platform. He said not a word.

The women filed before him, kissing his feet, and thousands pressed forward toward the Mahatma as though drawn toward the light of their newfound freedom. There was not a single policeman in the crowd.

Declares America Friendly.

Many Americans were there and Patel was interrupted by a storm of cheers when he declared the United States was in warm sympathy with this struggle for Indian freedom. In his, and the speeches which followed the dominant note was a demand that Great Britain recognize India as mistress in her own house, without safeguards and reservations.

"We can not be content with the doctrine evolved at London, that a federation with ruling Indian princes rather than with states is the solution of Indian unrest," one speaker said. He characterized Gandhi's creed of nonviolence as a "principle which will triumph over steel and relegate brute force to rust."

One of the first resolutions adopted noted "visible progress toward total prohibition," and summoned the Congress to "continue the antidrink campaign with renewed vigor."

Want Votes for Women.

Another asserted that "no constitution will be acceptable which discriminates against women in the matter of franchise."

"Indian women whom the world has regarded as domestic chattels and harem toys," one speaker declared, "have established records of heroism which have no parallel in history."

There was a resolution urging the release of all political prisoners not covered in the Gandhi-Irwin pact, and another deploring the recent race riots at Cawnpore. The Congress declared in favor of a referendum among the Burmese people on the

POLL REVEALS ROOSEVELT IN LEAD FOR 1932

Straw Ballot Conducted by Jesse I. Straus Is Made Public.

AL SMITH PLACES SECOND IN REPLIES

Owen D. Young Is Third and Gov. Ritchie Fourth in 942 Responses.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, reigned a heavy favorite in a poll of delegates and alternates to the 1928 National Democratic Convention, which was conducted by Jesse Isador Straus, brother of the assistant treasurer of the Democratic national committee in the last campaign, results of the poll announced yesterday showed.

The New York governor polled 478 votes for preference as the 1932 candidate, out of 942 who answered the queries. Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, ranked fourth as a choice with 39 votes. Alfred E. Smith was second with 125 votes and Owen D. Young third with 73.

Mr Strauss explained that approximately 2,000 men and women were questioned as to their choice for the next Democratic candidate and that of 942 who replied, 844 stated their preference.

Several Others Mentioned.

Those mentioned by former delegates and alternates in Mr. Straus' poll and their votes were as follows: Gov. Roosevelt, 478; Alfred E. Smith, 125; Owen D. Young, 73; Gov. Ritchie, 39; Joseph T. Robinson, 38; Newton D. Baker, 35; James M. Reed, 15; James M. Cox, 8; Cordell Hull, 6; George White, 6; J. Hamilton Lewis, 4; Walter George, 3; William G. McAdoo, 3; David I. Walsh, 4; Joseph B. Ely, 2; Senator Bulkley, 1; Dan Moody, 1; William H. Murray, 1; Carter Glass, 1, and Huston Thompson, 1.

Mr. Straus received seventeen replies from Maryland, and all but one of these stated a preference for Gov. Ritchie. Only one person failed to climb on the native son bandwagon, and the one vote went to Alfred Smith.

West Virginia gave Roosevelt fourteen votes of confidence, Robinson two, and Smith, Young and Baker one apiece. Two persons were undecided as to their preference.

Only one reply was received from Virginia and that former delegate in-

Three Found Dead; Apartment Locked

Double Murder, Suicide, Story Told by Position of Bodies.

Rochester, N. Y., March 29 (A.P.).—Locked in their apartment for two days unknown to neighbors, the bodies of a man, his wife and the woman's brother, each with a bullet hole in the head believed to have been inflicted by the husband, were revealed today through the suspicions of a friend who had become alarmed over their failure to answer his knocks.

The dead are Fred O. Morse, 62, Mrs. May Morse, 55, and Loren G. Cushman, 58. Police said positions of the bodies and presence of a pistol near Morse indicated he had slain his wife and brother-in-law, and then ended his own life.

Two cryptic notes, one to a friend directing the disposal of his effects, and the other to police asking the bodies be cremated "if not room on lot," both signed by Morse, were found on a living-room table.

Hope Rises for Lives Of 15 Bus Survivors

Children Able to Move Their Fingers, Paralyzed in Cold, for First Time Since Blizzard Killed Five Pupils and Driver.

Lamar, Colo., March 29 (A.P.).—Wiggling fingers of fifteen school children rescued from the Arctic gale which imprisoned them for 36 hours in a snow-filled bus near Towner, Colo., Thursday and Friday, today bolstered hope for their recovery.

Today, for the first time since their release from the marooned bus, in which five of their companions perished and near which Carl Miller, driver of the bus, was found dead, the children were able to move their fingers which had been paralyzed by the cold.

The youthful survivors of the most severe blizzard in Colorado in more than 40 years also could move their limbs, but their toes still were too numb. The rapid progress the children have made since being brought to the Maxwell Hospital here by airplane and automobile, attendants believe, indicates no amputation will be necessary.

Throughout the night the little patients bravely endured the pains of partly frozen bodies now throbbing with life. Occasionally, however, terrifying screams came from the hospital room, which was evidence that many still were suffering from the tortures which follow freezing. From others who have recovered more rapidly came cries as, in their sleep, they lived over again the agonizing 36 hours in the frigid bus on the blizzard-gripped prairie of southeastern Colorado.

Marked improvement was noted by hospital attendants after daybreak. Screams ceased. All were able to take nourishment and all showed interest when comic pages from Sunday newspapers were read to them.

The survivors are: Laura Huffaker, 7; Lena Huffaker, 9; Max Huffaker, 10; Carl Huffaker, 11; Charles Huffaker, 14; Alice Huffaker, 15; Maxine Brown, 10; Rosemary Brown, 13; Blanche Stonebreaker, 10; Clara Smith, 15; Leland Frost, 8; Unice Frost, 14; Evelyn Untiedt, 10; Bryan Untiedt, 13, and Ome Untiedt, 8.

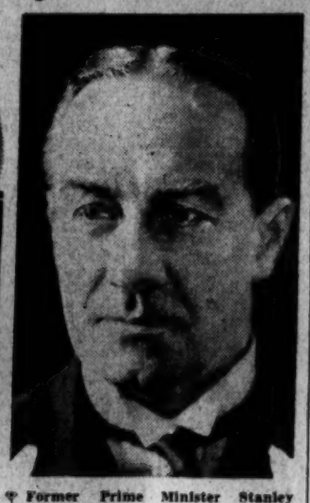
Alice Huffaker and Blanche Stonebreaker have made the slowest recovery of the 15 patients. Mrs. Marie W. Wadham, superintendent of the hospital, today said, while the condition of all the children still was serious, hope for the recovery of all without the loss of limbs was much brighter.

Coroner H. G. Hopkins after an investigation at the scene of the tragedy said no inquest would be conducted.

The children were found Friday night by Andrew Rheinhetz, a ranchman. They were taken to his home and later moved to the Lamar Hospital by airplane and automobile.

Joint funeral services for the six victims, Louise Stonebreaker, 15; Robert Brown, 11; Kenneth Johnson, 9; Arlo Untiedt, 9; Carl Miller, 35, the bus driver, and his daughter, Rosemary, 9, will be conducted in a lodge hall in Holly Tuesday afternoon.

British Conservatives Unite Party Factions



Former Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin (right) and Lord Beaverbrook, British publisher, whose agreement tending to solidify the Conservative party, has caused a political sensation in England.

Beaverbrook, With Aid of Chamberlain, Ends War With Baldwin.

London, March 29 (A.P.).—A dramatic development occurred in British politics tonight with the publication of documents showing there had been a reconciliation between warring factions of the Conservative party.

The documents were letters exchanged between Sir Neville Chamberlain, head of the official party machine, and Lord Beaverbrook, proprietor of the Daily Express and leader of the "Empire Crusaders," who have been waging a vigorous war on Stanley Baldwin's leadership of the Con-

WHEELER PREDICTS NATIONAL UPHEAVAL

Montana's Senator Sees Need of Five-Day Week; Demands Reforms.

Chicago, March 29 (A.P.).—Senator Wheeler today predicted political and economic upheavals as a result of current distress, and said there would be a third party if the two major parties are to be dominated by "reactionary forces."

The Montana Democorat, before the Open Forum, proposed a progressive program for the new Congress embracing a five-day week, recognition of Russia, and withdrawal from the courts of the injunction right in labor disputes.

"Certain progressive leaders," he said, "may issue statements saying there will be no third party in 1932, but the people and not the leaders, will determine whether there will be a third party in the event the two old parties do not courageously and honestly offer and apply remedies to meet the deplorable economic situation which exists in this country today."

Mr. Wheeler was one of the five signers of the call for the recent progressive conference. The others have all disclaimed third party plans.

The industrial leaders of the country, he said, have been seeking special advantages for themselves "at the cost of the breakdown of the very system which they to a large extent dominate."

Speaking of the depression, Wheeler said:

"The effect on the people is to shake to their very foundations our political and economic institutions and to throw off their political leaders.

"Men will not continue to go hungry in a land of plenty," he continued. "Nor can they be expected to cherish a system of government whose leaders seek to feed them on empty phrases."

He charged financial leaders had preempted the Republican party. "It is theirs," he added.

"They will, if the people of this country are not careful, take over the Democratic party and force it to adopt as reactionary a program as htat of their opponents."

Mr. Wheeler's progressive program included:

Federal cooperation with cities and States in feeding the unemployed.

Enactment of a consittutional amendment giving Congress the right to regulate hours of labor in factories.

Adoption by the States of social insurance to guard against risks of modern industry, including unemployment, illness and old age.

Extension of foreign trade by reduction of tariff barriers.

DEAD OF LOST CAUSE MAY GET U.S. SHRINE

War Department Approves Proposal, With Details to Be Compieted.

A pretentious project to create in Arlington Cemetery a distinctly national shrine to Confederate dead in the form of a spacious burial site, with the present restricted Confederate section serving as a tiny nucleus, was envisioned here yesterday as an early probability.

The proposal already has received the tacit approval of the War Department, even though countless details must yet be worked out, declared the man credited with conceiving the plan, Col. Robert Lee Longstreet, U. S. Army Reserves, son of the famous Confederate leader, Gen. James Longstreet.

Reservation of a beautifully wooded burial plot in the cemetery has been sought signally to honor the memroy of the men of the Lost Cause, particularly the heroes who before the Civil War had served in the United States Army, and accord them a sweeping national recognition, heretofore lacking.

Consummation of the proposal, according to Col. Longstreet, would open a spacious site to allow the burial or reburial of Confederate dead, and the erection of monuments and the like, irrespective of the residence of the veteran.

"The plan in reality would make Arlington Cemetery infinitely more national in its character and would permit a recognition to the great sweep of Confederates not now possible under the present restriction in the prevailing Confederate section in the cemetery, which is set apart exclusively for Confederate dead only of Washington and vicinity," Col. Longstreet explained.

It was recalled that during the administration of President McKinley the Confederate dead buried in Washington and its environs were removed there to the Confederate section. The Arlington Confederate Memorial Association was formed for the purpose of erecting a suitable monument to the dead there buried and in a larger sense as a memorial to those who gave their lives to the Confederacy. The present imposing Confederate shaft reared there was made possible by contributions.

Col. Longstreet said he made the suggestion last week to the War Department when it gave approval to the proposed tri-hero corner in the Confederate section to memorialize three Southern generals—Lee, Pickett and Longstreet—through interment there of the remains of both Pickett and Longstreet, and erection of a monument to Lee, whose body lies at Washington and Lee University.

He said the War Department looked with much favor on the plan to set

Former Ziegfeld Beauty Ends Life by Crashing Car

Rich Briton's Wife Killed as Auto Dives Over High Precipice.

Nice, France, March 29 (U.P.).—The gay career of Mrs. Mary Townsend, former Ziegfeld Follies beauty, known on the stage as Peggy Davis, came to a tragic end today when a motor car in which she was riding plunged over a 400-foot precipice at Eze, in the Alps, just outside Nice.

Authorities said it was suicide. They found a note signed by the actress, which said:

"I don't want to go back to the stage. Look after baby."

The letter indicated she had been unhappy, and added, "I am tired of living and prefer to die."

Mrs. Townsend's husband, a wealthy Englishman, and a child live at Cap Ferrat, on the Riviera. The actress was born at Birmingham, England.

The body was found at the foot of the high hill near the estate of Col. Jack Balsan, husband of Consuelo Vanderbilt. It had plunged from the

HOOVER BACK IN CITY AFTER 10-DAY VOYAGE

President Tanned During Complete Relaxation in Caribbean.

NEW PROBLEMS ARISE DURING HIS SEA TRIP

Wheat Situation, Treasury Deficit Will Occupy His Attention.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

His face reddened by the sun and the wind, his system revitalized by ten days at sea, President Herbert Hoover returned to Washington shortly after 7 o'clock last evening.

He came back prepared to tackle the problems that confront him—the wheat situation, growing out of the Farm Board's announcement that it will not buy wheat of the 1931 crop; the prospective $700,000,000 Treasury deficit, brought about by heavy congressional appropriations and reduced income tax receipts, and the perennial problems of politics.

Just before President Hoover left Washington for the Caribbean twelve days ago, it was reported that a movement was on foot to make Col. Theodore Roosevelt his running mate in 1932.

Matter Not Discussed.

It can be stated authoritatively that this matter was not discussed by President Hoover when he talked to Col. Roosevelt in the governor's palace at San Juan.

The report, of course, is based on the assumption that Vice President Charles Curtis will not seek a second nomination; that, instead, he will try to get back in the Senate. Thus far, there are no substantial facts to support such an assumption. If Mr. Curtis seeks renomination as Vice President, there is no doubt but what he will get it.

In any event, Gov. Roosevelt would be very much shocked, and also thrilled if the vice presidential nomination ever came his way.

In the next two months or so, President Hoover is scheduled to deliver eight speeches. On April 14 he will speak before the Pan-American Union here in Washington, and in the afternoon he will throw out the first ball at the opening of the baseball season at Griffith Stadium. That evening, he will talk over the radio to an assemblage at Tuskegee Institute, a school for colored Americans in Alabama.

While he was on the Arizona the President jotted down some notes for his eight speeches, but he did not put in any real toil on them. The purpose of his cruise was relaxation—relaxation after one of the most grueling stretches of work a President has ever endured—and he achieved that purpose.

Not once on the trip did he touch the medicine ball that he uses in exercising at the White House; not once did he go in for fishing, his favorite sport. About all that he did do was to sleep and eat, walk the quarterdeck and perhaps ponder the affairs of state that have been worrying him.

The Arizona, which left on its "shakedown," or test cruise, last Thursday, steamed into Hampton Roads yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The homecoming was a colorful one. An Army blimp floated over the battleship, dropped a sack of mail on the flying bridge, and then floated away to its base. A little later, the President was given another

Death Is Winner In 40-Mile Race

Paul Fortier, 72, Dies in Son's Auto From Taking Lotion in Error.

A 40-mile race against death was lost yesterday by Paul Fortier, 72 years old, of Chesapeake Beach, Md. The man died from the effects of a facial lotion he drank by mistake, before reaching Casualty Hospital.

Mr. Fortier, who was a barber at the resort, took the lotion in mistake for medicine. He became violently ill and his son, William, 21 years old, placed him in an automobile and raced for Washington. Mr. Portier was pronounced dead upon his arrival at the hospital.

The body was removed to a Washington funeral parlor and was sent back to Chesapeake Beach last night for funeral services and interment. Beside his son, Mr. Fortier is survived by a daughter. The man was a native of Canada, but has lived at Chesapeake Beach for a number of years.

thrill, when one of the two scout planes on the Arizona was catapulted from the quarterdeck.

The place, which was hurled out into the air with the force of a shell, was piloted by Lieut. William Davis. In the rear cockpit, camera in hand, was Lieut. Walter Richardson, of the Naval Reserves, a survivor of the Shenandoah disaster, who now is in charge of aerial photography in the Navy.

Just before he debarked, President Hoover invited Lieut. Comdr. Henry Kieffer, skipper of the destroyer Dupont, aboard the Arizona. Not only did the President greet Commander Kieffer, but presented him with an autographed hotograph. This was significant.

On the way down to Porto Rico the Arizona was scheduled to meet the Dupont about 500 miles off Palm Beach, Fla., and to take its position as the Arizona' escort. On the morning the battleship and destroyer were to meet, President Hoover was to stand on the quarterdeck and salute the Dupont as she steamed by. At the appointed hour (10 o'clock) the President was standing on the quarterdeck ready to greet the Dupont, and the cameramen had their tripods in position and were ready to make a shot of the ceremony.

Father, Son Cuaght In Coal Mine Slide

Forty Workers on 20-Minute Shifts in Rescue Effort.

Sanford, N. C., March 29 (A.P.).—Forty miners tonight were working in twenty-minute shifts in an effort to free two men trapped by a cave-in 3,300 feet below the surface in the Carolina Coal Co.'s mine at Coal Glen, 10 miles from here.

The men, whose name was given as Huneycutt, a father and son, entered the shaft last night to operate the pumps and clear the passage of water and were entombed when heavy rains of last night and early today caused a cave-in.

Miners expressed the opinion the two men were still alive. They were feverishly digging away a mass of coal and dirt blocking the passageway in the hope of reachnig the two men by morning.

Shenandoah Valley Gets Rain; Streams Run Full

Harrisonburg, Va., March 29.—Nearly an inch of precipitation fell last night in the central Shenandoah Valley, causing the Shenandoah River to approach a normal flow for the first time in nearly a year. Rain fell steadily for three hours. The spongelike ground absorbed it.

Cisterns on farms were replenished with water, and farm streams showed beneficial effects. Mountain streams dry for five months began pouring water into the Shenandoah River.

He declared that many details required attention before rleatives could proceed with their plans to remove there the remains of Gen. Longstreet, now in a cemetery in Gainesville, Ga. He said that his father many times hda expressed a desire to be buried in Arlington Cemetery, and that the gneeral's initmate association with Lee and his many visits to the mansion at Arlington, both during and after the residence of Lee, had formed a deep attachment for the spot.

In Richmond, Va., yesterday Mrs. J. F. Bauer, presidnet of the Hollywodo Ladies' Memorial Association, which has jurisdiction over the soldiers' section in Hollywood Cemetery there, where Gen. George E. Pickett lies buried, stoutly denied reports that either she or the association had expressed opposition to the announced plan for removal of the general's remains to Arlington Cemetery.

It was the refusal of that organization to accede to a request that the remains of Pickett's widow be placed at his side that led to the present decision for the trihero corner as a likely forerunner to the elaborate Confederate project.

Mrs. Bauer, in a telephone conversation with The Washington Post, said that certain newspaper statements attributed to her were wholly without foundation. She said the association last week finally rescinded its ruling against permitting burial of "Mother" Pickett there and that the organization had never gone on record regarding the proposal to remove the general's body.

She explained that records of the association did not give the exact burial spot of Gen. Pickett, and that its members knew only that he lay "somewhere" beneath the monument there erected to "Pickett and His Men." She pointed out that some difficulty therefore might be experienced in trying to find the remains, placed there in 1875 after reinterment from the original burying ground in Norfolk.

top of the precipitous bluff atop which the little Alpine village of Eze, 6 miles from Nice, overlooks the sea.

Friends were at a loss to explain why she should want to die. Mrs. Frank Bundy, an American friend of the actress, said Mrs. Townsend—or Peggy Davis, as she is better known here and in America—"never had any worries."

"I understand her husband, an Englishman, made a fortune in Wall Street," she said.

They lived in a sumptuous house at Cap Ferrat, fashionable Riviera resort.

Mrs. Townsend was one of the most beautiful women on the Riviera.

She mixed with smart American society here. Often without her husband she went the rounds of the cocktail parties. She was scheduled to participate in the battle of flowers at Beaulieu, near here.

New York, March 29 (A.P.).—Peggy Davis, former American show girl, who committed suicide last night at Nice, France, was recalled on Broadway today as a member of Ziegfeld's Follies in 1921 and 1922.

At least one other Peggy Davis was appearing on New York stages at that time, and information regarding the actress, who married David Townsend in 1923, was meager.

Townsend was once connected with the Bank of New South Wales, Australia. His wife was known as a native of New York.

QUEENS CHIEF DARES TAMMANY PROBERS

Borough President, Ally of Walker, Threatens to File Charges.

New York, March 29 (A.P.).—George U. Harvey, borough president of Queens and an ally of Mayor James J. Walker, although a Republican, stood embattled today against any attempt by Tammany Hall to touch his domain during its "house cleaning" before the start of the legislative investigation into New York City affairs.

On the heels of the arrest on a bribery charge of Rollin C. Bastress, Queens Republican and former chief inspector for the department of buildings in Manhattan, Harvey announced if Commissioner of Accounts James A. Higgins, who has been investigating city departments for Mayor Walker for two years, attempted to take action in Queens he would file charges of irregularities against Higgins.

Roosevelt May Decide.

In Yokers, Alderman Walter G. Jones, alleged to have bribed Bastress, refused to comment, while Mayor John J. Fogarty said he would look into the charges against Jones and that the final word concerning an ouster action against Jones probably would have to come from Gov. Roosevelt.

Thorough investigation into the probation system in the magistrates' courts was announced today by Harland B. Tibbetts, chief examining counsel for the Seabury inquiry. He said if the probation system had functioned properly, "framing" of innocent women would have been revealed long ago.

Phelps Defends Mayor.

Phelps Phelps, who served five terms in the Assembly from the Tenth District as a Republican, issued a statement today in defense of Mayor Walker, in which he called the mayor "a brilliant man ruined by the prevailing political system, and a victim of his personal and political honesty."

Commissioner of Accounts Higgins tomorrow will launch his probe of affairs in Richmond Village on Staten Island with the Seaview Hospital and Farm Colony Building Departments as his first subjects. Building Supervisor William J. McDermott said today he welcomed the proposed inquiry, which includes 58 charges against conditions filed since January 1.

Heads of both the hospital and colony said many of the conditions against which complaint had been made now are remedied.

CONSERVATIVES END WAR WITH FACTIONS

servative party, culminating in the recent unpleasantness of the St. George's division by-election.

In the initial letter from Beaverbrook to Chamberlain, the former asks if officials of the Conservatives will develop a policy of increasing manufacturing production and increasing wheat and general agricultural production at home by "quotas, prohibitions or duties on foreign foodstuffs."

Lord Beaverbrook added that it was well known that he favored duties on foreign foodstuffs, but he recognized that the quota system and prohibitions had advantages "in relation to increased production of some foodstuffs in Great Britain."

"If the Conservative party is prepared at the next election to ask for a mandate to put any or all of these methods into effective operation in the interest of British agriculture," he continued, "I, for my part, will do everything I can to help to carry the program to its fulfillment."

In reply, Chamberlain said he had discussed Beaverbrook's letter with Baldwin, who authorized him to say it was his intention to employ for the development of agriculture "any or all" of the methods enumerated "as they may be the best way to effect the objec aimed at, and to ask electors for a mandate for that purpose."

"Accordingly I am glad to think that we shall have the cooperation of yourself and your friends in our task, and I welcome your support," he wrote.

INDIAN OFFICE PLANS GREATER EFFICIENCY

Reorganization of Service Is Announced, to Take Effect Immediately.

(Associated Press.)

Reorganization of the Indian Office, designed to conquer many admitted evils which have attended the Government's guardianship of its wards, was announced yesterday by Commissioner Rhoads and Assistant Commissioner Scattergood.

Changes in the bureau, effective immediately, will place increased responsibility on new officials, selected for their professional equipment and knowledge of Indian problems.

By giving them wide executive power, it will cut through much cumbersome procedure which has hampered the work and brought frequent condemnation upon the office.

Will Separate Problems.

For the first time, problems of human relations will be handled separately from those involving administration of property. Each will be under direction of an assistant to the commissioner. Under the first group, new field divisions will be created for health, education and agricultural extension and industry. The second group will include divisions of forestry and irrigation and activities dealing with tribal and individual property. The old organization, operated largely along clerical lines, was virtually unchanged for 50 years.

The program climaxes the corrective process Mr. Rhoads and Mr. Scattergood began upon taking office in 1928. Since that year Congress has doubled Indian appropriations, civil service qualifications and salaries for the field personnel of 5,000 have been raised, extensive construction has been undertaken to correct bad conditions at a number of Indian schools and hospitals, food allowances for children in the boarding schools have been increased from 11 to 37 cents a day and the heavy labor previously done by school children has been taken from them. Other similar improvements have been undertaken.

"Dead Timber" Weeded Out.

In weeding out "dead timber" from the field personnel, the commissioners have replaced 24 out of the 110 superintendents of reservations and institutions. Of the new men, fifteen were promoted within the Indian service and nine were taken from outside. Eleven superintendents were retired for age or disability, six were demoted, two were dismissed and one resigned "with prejudice." Four posts were vacant.

A few further changes are to be made, but in general the commissioners are satisfied superintendents now in office are qualified for their increased responsibilities.

The division of human relations will be under Robert T. Lansdale, former executive secretary of the Council of Social Agencies of Montclair, N. J., and of the staff of the New York School of Social Work. He has been with the Indian Service in a field capacity for about a year. The assistant who will deal with property has not been appointed.

West Point Class To Train at Posts

Three-Week Tour of Duty in Maryland adn Virginia Is Worked Out.

Baltimore, March 29 (A.P.).—The entire 1932 class of cadets at West Point, numbering 270 members, will undergo nearly three weeks of summer training in specified branches at Army posts of the Third Corps Area this coming summer, according to arrangements just completed between the commandant of cadets, the commanding general, Third Corps Area, and the War Department.

The program calls for travel from West Point to Fort Monroe, to arrive at the latter post June 13, to be followed by 15 days' training in which cadets will be divided into three groups, each to rotate at the end of five days between Fort Monroe, Fort Eustis and Langley Field.

Three demonstrations are scheduled. On the morning of July 2, the entire class will be assembled at Langley Field to witness an air demonstration, going from there to Fort Eustis for a field demonstration of the Army mechanized force later the same day. Upon completion of this demonstration, the cadets will be taken to Yorktown and embarked on a boat for Fort George G. Meade, Md., where they will witness a tank demonstration on the afternoon of July 3. All are scheduled to leave Fort Meade for return to West Point not later than July 5.

DRYS TWICE ATTACK RUM-CONTROL PLAN

Methodist Board, McBride Fight Proposal for U. S. to Enter Business.

(Associated Press.)

A dual attack upon suggestions the Federal Government go "into the liquor business" or undertake a system of liquor control emanated yesterday from leading organizations in the dry camp.

The Methodist Episcopal Board of Temperance, in its weekly clip-sheet, gave reasons it believed the American people "could not accept" a liquor-control system.

The system, proposed by Col. Henry W. Anderson, of Richmond, Va., in his addenda to the Wickersham report, was patterned in part upon the Bratt system. The board did not mention either Anderson or the law enforcement commission's report.

McBride Makes Statement.

At the same time, P. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Antisaloon League, issued a statement quoting the answers given by two Pittsburgh business and professional men to a letter from Pierre S. du Pont, a director of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

Marcus W. Acheson, Jr., attorney was quoted as contending the American people would never consent "To their government's going into the liquor business." He asserted it was "outside practical politics," and would not lead to temperance.

R. A. Shipley, vice president of the National Fire Proofing Company, was quoted as saying prohibition had brought financial comfort to his firm's employes in place of near poverty. Both men were listed as leaders of the Anti-Saloon League's new national education program.

Increased Drinking Claimed

Among the points enumerated against the Bratt system were that it was based upon a false "theory of alcoholic beverages;" that it had increased drinking among Sweden's youth; that it was too paternalistic and that since holding of a liquor license was based upon good behavior the right to drink had become a "credential of respectability."

"The Bratt system has had only a limited trial in 120 of the 2,400 districts of Sweden," the board said. "Under the local option privilege granted by the law of 1885, more than 2,200 of Sweden's districts are dry."

The board also again attacked Fruit Industries, Limited, a California grape concentrate concern represented by Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former Assistant Attorney General.

Added Employes Speed Patent Applications

(Associated Press.)

An early end to delay in action upon patent applications was predicted last night by Patent Commissioner T. E. Robertson.

In a radio speech over the National Broadcasting Co. network, Robertson said new employes rapidly are being trained in their work, and that applications, piling up steadily since the World War, had been reduced 22,000 in the last 12 months. He termed America's patent laws the most liberal in the world.

MEETING TO DISCUSS APPROACH TO BRIDGE

Citizens' Groups Advocating Arlington Control to Gather Friday.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Announcement of a meeting of all delegates from the several citizens associations supporting the movement being sponsored by the Fort Myer Heights Citizens Association to have the county take over Washington street from the intersection of Wilson Boulevard and Court street as the most direct approach to the new Memorial Bridge will be held in the auditorium of the Woodrow Wilson School building, at Fort Myer Heights, Friday night at 8 o'clock.

The county engineer's office has completed the map, plans and specifications for the project and, according to L. C. McNemar, chairman of the committee from the Fort Myer Heights Citizens Association, a report from the right of ways committee, of which Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth is the chairman, will be received at this meeting.

The plan, it is understood, will be to organize the representatives from the several associations supporting the movement into a general committee to present the project to the county authorities and urge its acceptance of the proposal to make this the one approach to the bridge, which will be the first to be assured to the citizens of Arlington County.

"The new Memorial Bridge is now about completed and with plans going forward rapidly for the Bicentennial Celebration next year it is absolutely necessary, not only for the residents of Arlington County but for the many thousands of tourists who will come to Washington, that an adequate approach to the bridge be established," declared Mr. McNemar last night.

"Arlington County, despite the general business depression of the past year, is now facing its greatest opportunity for rapid development; in fact, many homes are now in course of construction and reports available from business firms supplying building material show that many more are contemplated, and not to have an adequate approach to the bridge which is being constructed by the Federal Government and which will hardly have an equal in the country, will be nothing short of a crime," Mr. McNemar said.

Those associations which are backing the movement started by the Fort Myer Heights Citizens Association are: Livingstone Heights, Cherrydale, Ballston, Clarendon, Lyon Park, Ashton Heights, East Falls Church, Leeway and Lyon Village.

The county board of supervisors will hold a public hearing tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the courthouse on proposed amendments to the county ordinances.

There are a number of proposed amendments, but the one which promises to be met with the most opposition will be that changing from residential to local business the lot which adjoins the Marcey Bros. Dairy, on Wilson boulevard and Rucker avenue.

The Lyon Village Citizens Association has gone on record as opposing the change, and has so advised the county authorities. It is understood that the village will be represented at the hearing by a large delegation of its residents.

Two musical programs will be given at the Clarendon Methodist Episcopal Church. The choir of St. John's Episcopal Church, of Bethesda, Md., will give Stainer's "Crucifixion" at 8 o'clock Wednesday night. On Easter Sunday evening "The Story of Easter," by Stults, will be given by the church choir.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Clarendon Methodist Episcopal Church will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. The Margaret Thomas Circle will act as hostess.

The county health department yesterday gave out the following list of five-point health children from the Stonewall Jackson School at Bon Air:

Robert Benton, Marvin Herrell, Leon Steed, Percy West, Stanley Wrenn, Adrianne Wrenn, Eston Taylor, Albert Alexander, James Lear, George Dulaney, James Overal, William Benton, William Gore, Marshall Gore, N. McIntyre, Joseph Peters, LeRoy Stegmaier, Edwin Steger, Fred Bladen, William Overal, Glen Rogers, Cynthia Poole, Shirley Luckett, Catherine Meinberg, Ruth Brown, Evelyn Simerly, Alice Lear, Beverly Postels, Virginia Caton, Patricia Franks, Betty Ballinger, Mary Elizabeth Lane and Shirley Rowlett.

Beginning tonight, special Holy week services will be conducted at the Arlington Methodist Church. The sermon tonight will be preached by the Rev. Mark Depp, of Calvary Methodist Episcopal Church, Washington. The music will be by the men's class. Tomorrow night, "Passion Play" pictures of Oberammergau will be presented by Page McK. Etchison, of the Y. M. C. A., and Miss Jean Bone will render a solo. Wednesday evening the Rev. Henry J. Smith, of the Petworth Baptist Church, will deliver the sermon and there will be a solo by Mrs. W. L. McDonald. Thursday there will be Holy Communion, in charge of the pastor, the Rev. Edward G. Latch. Friday the services will be conducted by the Charles English family and the Gospell Bell Ringers.

The Piedmont Chapter, American War Mothers of Falls Church will hold its monthly meeting this afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. S. Browning.

President George M. Yeatman of the Ashton Heights Citizens Association announces the appointment of the following committee to cooperate with like committees from other associations in their effort to have Washington street as the approach to the new Memorial Bridge: Thomas R. Mechem, W. U. Hall and H. L. Zile.

The Margaret King Circle of St. George's Episcopal Church announce that they will attend the special Holy Week services at the church tomorrow instead of holding the monthly meeting.

TRIO HURT IN CRASH BELOW ALEXANDRIA

Driver Held for Grand Jury and Lodged in Jail to Await $500 Bond.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

An accident occuring early yesterday morning on the Washington-Richmond highway, on the curve at the Penn Daw Hotel about three miles south of Alexandria, resulted in the injury of three persons and the arrest of the driver of one of the vehicles, on a charge of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

According to Fairfax County Policeman Lewis L. Finks, who investigated the accident, a car driven by Lieut. B. C. Snow, of Fort Humphreys, Va., was hit as it was rounding the curve by a car driven by George A. Tucker, of Quincy place northeast, Washington.

The injured persons were taken to the Alexandria Hospital, where it was found that Mrs. Snow was suffering from severe cuts about the head and shoulders and a broken finger. The other two injured were passengers in the Tucker car. Mrs. Alma White, 721 Seventh street southwest, Washington, had a broken left leg, and "Mike" Roach, of Accotink, was cut about the head. Tucker, George White and a small child escaped injury.

Tucker was arrested by Policeman Finks and taken before Justice of the Peace Harry Shepherd at Accotink, where he was fined $10 and costs for reckless driving and held for the action of the grand jury for driving while under the influence of liquor. Tucker was lodged in the Fairfax County Jail on failure to give a $500 bond.

A raid by Sheriff E. P. Kirby early yesterday morning, at the home of Richard Chambers, in Fairfax, caused the arrest of Chambers and David Gill, Lawrence Diamond and Lester Presley on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. The men were boarders at the Chambers home. According to Sheriff Kirby a quantity of alleged liquor was found and there was evidence of a "free-for-all fight" having taken place just before he arrived.

The men were given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Thomas P. Chapman, at Fairfax. Chambers was held for the action of the grand jury on a charge of operating a disorderly house and for the possession of ardent spirits. The others were fined $10 and costs for being drunk and disorderly.

John L. Sanford, 22, of Mount Ida, Va., and Eugene Purkey, alias Charles Edwards, 20, of Burke avenue, Potomac, Va., who were arrested Saturday night by Sheriff E. P. Kirby for a statutory offense on a 13-year-old girl, were given a hearing yesterday morning before Justice of the Peace John B. Dowden, at Fairfax.

Sanford was held for the action of the grand jury at the May term of the Fairfax County Court on charges of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor and transportation and possession of ardent spirits. Purkey was held for the grand jury on a charge of possession of ardent spirits. They are both held in the Fairfax County Jail. A hearing on the alleged assault charge will be held this morning at Fairfax before Justice Dowden.

Ninety persons attended the annual Father and Son banquet of the Herndon High School Chapter of Future Farmers of Virginia in the auditorium of the Herndon School. Robert Bready, of Herndon, acted as toastmaster. The Rev. J. C. Dugger gave the invocation and John Beard, president of the class, gave the address of welcome, which was responded to by Herman Swank, president of the Future Farmers Club at Nokesville, Va.

A three-course supper was served by the girls of the home economics class of the Herndon School under the supervision of Miss Elizabeth Armfield.

A quartet composed of Robert Bready, Roy Tate, Westley Hawley and Junior Smith, members of the Herndon club, gave several selections. The principal speaker of the evening was D. J. Howard, of Richmond, State supervisor of agriculture in the schools.

Other persons addressing the gathering included Wilbert T. Woodson, divisional superintendent of schools; Dr. Ernest L. Robey, president of the Citizens Association and School League of Herndon; J. P. Pullen, agricultural instructor in the school at Manassas; Frederick W. Robinson and B. F. McGuire, of the Herndon school board; O. F. Northington, jr., principal of the Herndon School, and Prof. W. R. Crabill, Fairfax County agricultural instructor.

The members of the Herndon Chapter voted to award Benjamin Middleton, of Floris, who was selected as one of the sixteen master farmers of Virginia, an honorary membership in this organization.

The work of laying the water mains in the town of Fairfax has progressed so rapidly that it is expected that this portion of the work will be completed within the next three weeks. It has been estimated that the new municipal water system will be ready for service not later than May 1. To provide the town with temporary fire protection, the company installing the water system has placed an attachment to the mains whereby water can be pumped from the creek which runs through Fairfax.

The foundation for the water tower, which is to be erected on a lot in the rear of the residence of Mrs. Nora V. Allison, on Payne street, has been completed, and it is expected that the tower and tank will reach Fairfax within the next few days. Workmen will begin erecting it as soon as it arrives.

The Loudoun Transit Co., a subsidiary of the Maryland, Virginia & Washington Bus Co., has been organized and will operate the new bus line from Loudoun County and points along the Alexandria-Leesburg pike into Washington, beginning Wednesday. The schedule, as announced, calls for round trips each day. Two of the trips will start from Bluemont, Va., and four from Round Hill, Va., and return. The Washington terminal will be at Twelfth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

Battle With Ice Delays Steamer

Three Weeks Overdue and Coal Gone, Captain Had to Burn Wood.

Baltimore, March 29 (A.P.).—Three weeks overdue after battling ice and high seas, the Norwegian steamer Hesperos anchored at Quarantine today, her coal bunkers empty. For the last two days of the voyage from Nicoleiff, Russia, Capt. Chris H. Olsen, said he had to burn wood, the coal supply becoming exhausted just before reaching the Capes at the entrance to Chesapeake Bay.

The ship left Nicoleiff February 6 with sufficient coal and supplies to last for the ordinary trip of 30 days to Algiers and Baltimore with an ore cargo.

After reaching the Atlantic storms set in and for the next few weeks high seas and gales impeded the progress of the ship.

The Hesperos reached port without damage.

BROTHERS TO TAKE STAND IN DEFENSE

Accused Slayer of Lingle Is Cheered by Lawyers, Who Predict Acquittal.

Chicago, March 29 (A.P.).—Leo V. Brothers will take the stand in an effort to save himself from the electric chair for the slaying of Alfred "Jake" Lingle, when defense testimony gets under way this week, his attorneys announced today. The State is expected to close tomorrow with the testimony of two more witnesses, and the defense will be ready to begin at once.

It was indicated also that Brothers' mother and his sweetheart, Betty Cook, probably will be called by the defense. Defense attorneys were extremely optimistic about their chances for acquittal. Tyrell Krum, chief of counsel, said: "We will match the State's case, witness for witness. We have witnesses who were in the Illinois Central Tunnel when Lingle was killed, and they will testify that Brothers was not the man who fled."

The State's star witness, Albert W. Kelstrom, will appear tomorrow with climaxing testimony for the prosecution. He is expected to testify that Brothers rushed into the Randolph street store where Kelstrom is employed, a few moments after Lingle was felled in the subway, hurriedly purchased a $5 bag and then disappeared.

Such testimony would corroborate the stories of other witnesses describing how the killer ran from the tunnel and fled west on Randolph street, being swallowed up in the crowds. It would damage a prospective defense alibi that Brothers was nowhere near the scene of the slaying last June 9.

While the case enters its second climactic week much of the glamour and significance has been stripped from it by the initial ruling of Judge Joseph Sabath that the prosecution need not show motive.

Public interest, centering ostensibly about the query "Who killed Jake Lingle," was really pointed mainly toward the identity of the men who hired the reporter's assassin.

Tractor Caravan at Beirut To Follow Marco Polo Trail

Scientists Leading One of the Most Extensive Explorations of Modern Times Will Travel 13,500 Miles in 18 Months.

A caravan of seven unique caterpillar tractors, scientists and scientific apparatus, ranging from radio to sound recording apparatus and color cameras, is assembled at Beyreuth (Beirut), Syria, ready to start within a few days upon one of the most completely equipped and most extensive overland explorations of modern times, according to advices received in Washington yesterday by the National Geographic Society.

The expedition, which is to cross Asia by motor mounted on the curious crawling caterpillar apparatus, will traverse, in part, the route of Marco Polo, the ancient silk route from Cathay to the Mediterranean.

The leader of the expedition, which is a French enterprise in which the National Geographic Society is cooperating, is Georges-Marie Haardt, famous French explorer, who was first to cross the Sahara by motor car.

The transasia expedition will operate in two parts, meeting after one unit encircles mountains that may carry them through passes as high as the peaks of the Alps, while the other is crawling through areas of "unquenchable thirst" and deadly sand storms, until they join forces at the midasia rendezvous of Kashgar.

The seven cars assembled at Beyrouth, Syria, is the Panir unit, under the personal leadership of M. Haarot. The second division, the China unit, operating from Peping (Peking) with the full cooperation of Chinese authorities, will drive west across Mongolian deserts and the plateau of Chinese Turkestan toward Kashgar.

Dr. John Oliver La Gorce, vice president of the National Geographic Society, who has been traveling in the Near East and Egypt, is in Beyrouth, awaiting the departure of the expedition. The society's representative, correspondent and photographer who is assigned to the expedition is Dr. Maynard Owen Williams, who already has traveled extensively in Asia.

The journey of the China unit from Peiping to Kashgar will be commanded by Lieut. Comdr. Victor Point, M. Haardt's chief of staff, and associated with him will be Dr. Tsu Ming Yi, chief of the Chinese Geographical Survey.

After leaving Peiping the entire expedition will turn south, to Saigon, French Indo-China, then traversing India, Baluchistan and Arabia, will round out an overland "voyage" of more than 13,500 miles. The expedition will be in the field about eighteen months.

Scientists and specialists in many fields will study obscure tribes, geology, zoology, plant life and strange human customs of isolated peoples who are living as they did in pre-Christian, and even in pre-Buddhist eras.

Sound recording and color photography will be utilized to make permanent records of strange chants, songs, rituals, ceremonials and costumes of the picturesque river, desert and mountain peoples.

The caterpillar cars are the result of more than ten years' experimental work on a type of vehicle which will negotiate rough and roadless areas. Each car, with its trailer, is a separate unit, and can proceed for a number of days if cut off from the rest of the expedition.

Like the cars of the Africa expedition the trans-asia machines have caterpillar treads in place of rear wheels. To keep the front wheels from sinking in sand and marshy ground the new cars have a roller affixed to the bumper. The device looks like a gasoline tank at the wrong end, but when the front of the car sinks in the sand the round tank supports the weight of the front end and revolves as the caterpillars push the car ahead.

Each unit of the expedition will carry a radio station, which will operate on both short and long wave lengths. One car of each unit will be devoted exclusively to radio communication, and at all times will keep in touch with Paris and the National Geographic Society's headquarters at Washington.

Inexpensive Meat Cuts Now Cheaper Than Ever

(Associated Press.)

Families with small or restricted incomes were told yesterday by E. W. Sheets, of the Agriculture Department, that they would find inexpensive cuts of meat cheaper than ever.

Mr. Sheets, chief of the animal husbandry division, said meat now costs less than in many years, with breast and neck of medium lamb selling for as low as 7½ cents a pound.

Full-flavored foods, such as meat, tomatoes and onions, were urged by the Bureau of Home Economics for persons limited to minimum food supplies.

It would cost $2,250 to send postcards to all the readers that can be reached any morning by Post Classified Ads.

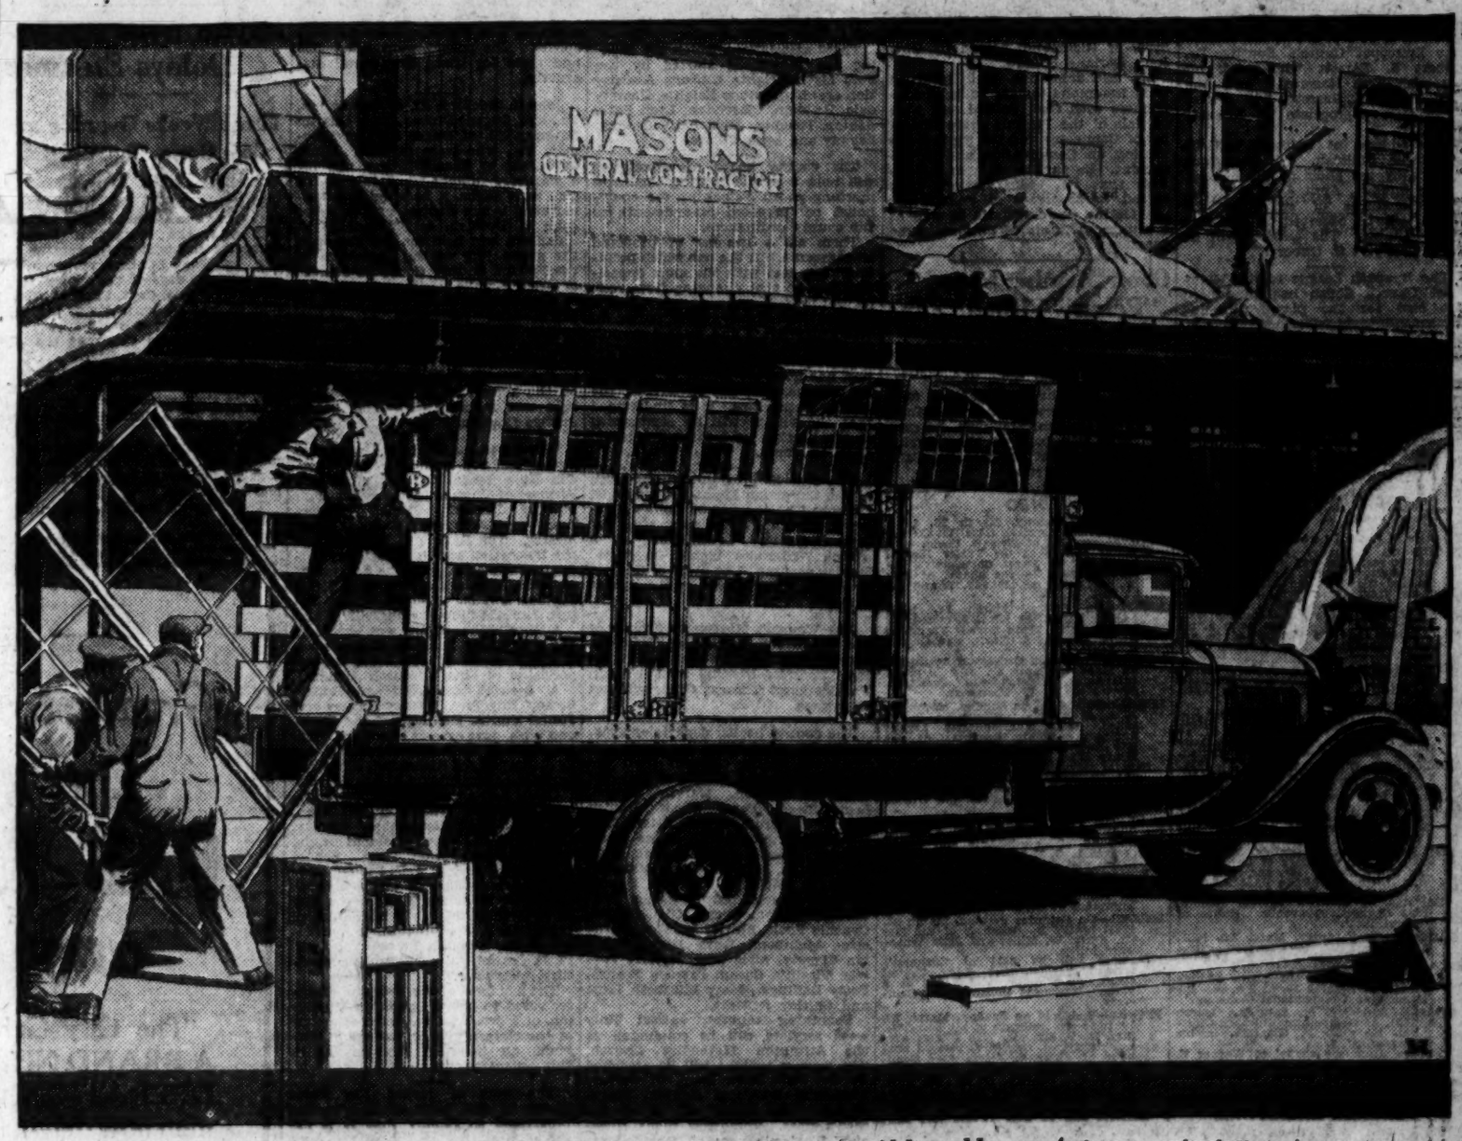
THE FORD TRUCK



The Stake body on the chassis with 157-inch wheelbase. This type is widely used by manufacturers, contractors and shippers, and for industrial hauling generally.

THE owners of Ford trucks, everywhere, have found that Ford economy goes far beyond the saving in first cost alone. Fine materials, precision workmanship, and simplicity of construction increase the reliability of Ford units, helping to keep them out of the shop, and on the job. CULPEPER MINISTER SUCCUMBS IN STUDY

Dr. E. W. Winfrey Expires at Age of 72, After Opening Morning Service.

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., March 29.—A few minutes after he had received ten new members into his congregation, Dr. E. W. Winfrey, 72, for 42 years pastor of the Culpeper Baptist Church, retired to his study near the pulpit and died.

Dr. Winfrey had been in failing health for several months and was officially taking a six months' vacation, but still participated in the activities of the church. This morning he made a talk to the Sunday school, opened services in church and later retired from the pulpit to allow a visiting minister to preach. Soon after the sermon was started members of the congregation saw Dr. Winfrey rise and start toward his study, but as he reached a short flight of steps he faltered and would have fallen had not members of the church supported him. Taken to the study, he expired within a few minutes.

He was the oldest preacher in Culpeper in point of service and one of the oldest residents of the town. For many years he had been a writer of denominational tracts and articles for religious periodicals.

He is survived by seven children, Mrs. Joe Terrill, of Buckner; Mrs. Robert F. Booten and Miss Kate Winfrey, Culpeper; E. W. Winfrey, jr., Clifton Forge; Herman Winfrey, Richmond; H. B. Winfrey, Sperryville, and Brockman Winfrey, of Culpeper. Dr. Winfrey was originally from Buckingham County, Virginia.

25 Skeletons of Soldiers Are Excavated at 'Crater'

Buttons, Bits of Cloth and Other Articles Found Indicate Remains Are Those of Union Fighters, Slain in Sanguinary Combat.

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., March 29.—Workmen were engaged yesterday on the golf course on the Crater Battlefield, in Prince George County, near Petersburg. They dug up 25 skeletons of soldiers who were killed in the Battle of the Crater, one of the most sanguinary battles of the war between the States.

The remains indicated that all of the bodies were of Federal soldiers. In one instance a piece of blue cloth, such as was used in making the Federal uniforms, was found. Although buried for so many years, this scrap of cloth still preserves the deep blue color of the Federals. Numerous buttons served as identifications and some pieces of blankets were collected from the excavations.

First indication of the discovery of the bodies was when plowing the earth a short distance from the surface a foot bone was uncovered.

Among the articles found with the remaining bones of the Union dead in this forgotten grave were bullets, a bayonet, cap boxes with the paper caps still preserved, and other bits of war relics. With the remains of one soldier a penny was found, the only coin discovered with the bodies.

Conditions of most of the skulls shows that many were crushed, but in one instance the skull shows how a grape shot pierced the skull on one side, making a perfectly round hole, and lodged on the other side. When uncovered the shot was still partly embedded in the skull. When all of the remains are collected they will be reburied in the National Cemetery at City Point.

Digging for more skeletons will be resumed tomorrow.

MRS. ALICE H. WHYTE DEAD

Woman Prominent in Church Activities to Be Buried.

Mrs. Alice Hanna Whyte, 71 years old, died yesterday at her home, 1921 Kalorama road northwest, following a lengthy illness. She had been a lifelong resident of Washington.

Mrs. Whyte was educated in the St. Vincent Convent School here, and for many years had been prominent in church activities. Surviving her are three daughters, Mrs. Lester Sisler, of Florida, Mrs. David J. Dunigan, and Miss Eunice Whyte, and one son, E. Warren Whyte, of this city.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at St. Patrick's Church, Tenth and G streets northwest. Interment will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Mother Predicts Beauty's Freedom

Says Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger Will Be Acquitted in French Courts.

Nice, France, March 29 (A.P.).—Mrs. James H. Nash, who came here from St. Louis to be with her daughter when she faces trial for killing her husband, Fred Nixon-Nirdlinger, is convinced the prisoner will be acquitted.

"I can't say much," she said in an interview at the Nixon-Nirdlinger apartment today, "but I have seen Charlotte and her story is true. The French courts will free her. We parted with that belief. I don't know what the lawyers say, but Charlotte will tell the jury what she told me.

"Here I am in a strange country where I can't speak the language, but I am the nearest relative and I will care for Charlotte's children until she is released. You may say that any letters I have brought with me will not be introduced during her trial."

ALIENS BARRED OUT.

Congress failed to provide additional protection for American workmen at its last session, but the administration is making up for that failure by excluding aliens who are likely to become public charges. Sentiment was overwhelmingly in favor of relieving workingmen from alien competition during this period of unemployment, but the cumbersome wheels of legislation were not fast enough to turn out the necessary law before the Seventy-first Congress expspired. It appears, however, that a substantial cut in immigration will be made this year by administrative means.

The law provides that aliens likely to become public charges may be excluded, even though the national quotas under which their applications are made have not been filled. President Hoover took the attitude that every laborer who comes to America during the depression is liable to become a public charge. In view of the widespread unemployment, foreigners can not find work in the United States unless they displace Americans by offering to work for lower wages. For the last five months aliens have been rigidly examined as to their prospects of self-maintenance. The result has been a drastic reduction in the number of visas issued.

The White House estimates that nearly 100,000 aliens have been kept out by this means. In 21 countries having annual quotas totaling 148,466, only 10,277 visas were issued during the five months ended with February. This is a reduction of 86 per cent. Even more drastic cuts were made in the eligibility lists of smaller countries under the quota system. Similar results have been obtained in the nonquota countries of this hemisphere. In five months the visas allowed to Canadians were reduced to 3,876 as compared with 15,997 for the same period last year, a decline of 76 per cent. During the same period Mexican immigration was cut down from nearly 20,000 to 884, a reduction of 95 per cent.

This achievement will not be overlooked by the workingmen of America. Without any red tape or delay the President solved the problem of alien competition while legislators were jockeying with political considerations. It is not surprising that groups in need of emergency relief turn more to the President and less to Congress.

Secretary Doak has set about to deport 100,000 aliens who came to the United States under the guise of seamen. Congress also had an opportunity to correct this situation, but the bill was lost in the shuffle. The Supreme Court has decided that bogus seamen are subject to deportation, and the Department of Labor has a free hand in dealing with them. It is unfortunate that the Government must spend large sums of money to deport these aliens while Congress allows other bogus seamen to be smuggled in at the rate of 40,000 per year.

STUDY OF THE EARTH.

An imaginative writer recently regaled what must have been a large and appreciative reading audience with a complete account of the end of the world. He was not at all inconvenienced by the fact that, according to his own calculations, that event will not take place for a few billion years. With the vividness of a historian he recorded the fatal event from another planet which had been colonized from the earth.

The end of the world has always been a fascinating conception. Some one is always predicting what that fanciful event will be like, and how it may come about. The public listens, amused but unbelieving. In the meantime substantial scientists are probing deeper and deeper into the secrets of this globe. Occasionally some of their work comes to notice and the public is reminded that it is proper to inquire as to how the earth is made and what has been its past before speculating as to what shall be its fate.

One group of scientists is engaged in studying the earth's composition. Until recently almost nothing was known on this subject. The general impression that the earth's interior is liquid is sufficient to indicate the prevailing ignorance. But geologists have observed and measured earthquake waves. It is known that a certain type of wave registered on seismographic records can be produced only by a solid mass. So it has been concluded that the center is a dense solid which is covered by a mantle of elastic material about 720 miles thick. The outer crust, which varies from 25 to 40 miles thick—relatively not much thicker than the skin of an apple—constitutes the unstable part of an otherwise solid and dense globe.

Another group of scientists has been investigating the age of the earth. Many estimates have been based on the deposition of strata and fossils, and upon study of astronomy and the salt content of the ocean. But a committee of experts appointed by Dr. Joseph S. Ames, president of Johns Hopkins University, has abandoned all these methods as leading to gross inaccuracies. Its recent calculation, based on the disintegration of radioactive elements, places the age of the earth at approximately 2,000,000,000 years.

Science has constantly changed its theories and estimates concerning the earth, and it may be assumed that these concepts now set up by the best authority will undergo a metamorphosis as additional data are revealed. It is interesting, nevertheless, to find after centuries of idle speculation that some of the best scientific minds are probing into mother earth's secrets on a matter-of-fact basis.

WELCOME HOME!

The public learns with satisfaction that President Hoover's vacation has given him recuperated strength and fresh energy with which to meet his tasks. It is also a satisfaction to know that he is safely back in Washington. The safety and health of the President of the United States affect the whole country, and since his labors are dedicated to all the people, without regard to party, so all of them rejoice when he can gain a surplus of vigor. He should take frequent vacations, not merely for his own sake, but also to reassure the people that he is not taking undue risks by incessant work.

Mr. Hoover finds plenty of business awaiting him, but no new question of primary concern has risen during his absence. He was aware of the impending increase of the deficit, and had done everything in his power to avert it. No doubt he foresaw the decision of the Farm Board to avoid an attempt to peg the price of 1931 wheat, but he also had advance information indicating that farmers are doing much for themselves by curtailing their wheat planting. The problem of the wheat surplus becomes less difficult in view of the prospect of a curtailed crop. Industry is moving in the right direction, with a perceptible decrease of unemployment. The drought situation has been relieved. There are no labor troubles. Railroad consolidation awaits agreement among the executives. Party politics is always a subject for consideration, but there is nothing in this field that need distract the President's attention from the public business.

Within a few weeks Mr. Hoover will deliver several addresses during a short tour. The public awaits his speeches with great interest, knowing that he will discuss pending questions from the advantageous standpoint of accurate knowledge and with national breadth of view.

FACTS FOR FILIPINOS.

Few Americans have ever put the problem of independence so plainly before the Filipino people as did Dr. Herbert Adams Gibbons, of Princeton University, in his address at Manila. Dr. Gibbons is a thorough student of nationalist movements and international relations. He has injected into the discussion of Filipino independence fact and reality which ought to shock the native politicians into a realization of what it is they are demanding.

What makes this a unique independence movement in the history of the world, says Dr. Gibbons, is that it is not based on any grievance and that its leaders have absolutely no program for the future, should they achieve their aspirations. The Philippines already have self-government. Yet they go on pleading for the independence which they could not maintain.

No sensible Filipino, says Dr. Gibbons, could possibly believe that the United States would grant immediate independence to the islands. The American business interests that have been developed in the islands would have to be given time to adjust their affairs to the new status. The Filipinos would need time to make economic adjustments of their own. Nothing short of disaster could be expected if a tariff wall were suddenly erected against Philippine sugar, hemp, &c., by the United States. Dr. Gibbons did not hesitate to call all demands for immediate independence mere "claptrap." It is unquestionably true that in resisting these pleas the Americans are better friends to the Filipinos than they are to themselves.

The idea of ultimate, complete independence is likewise a theoretical and fanciful conception. In reality the Philippines do not want to be cut loose from the United States. They want this Government to withdraw and leave them to manage their own affairs, with the proviso that they would be protected from invasion by any other power. Their position is very similar to that of an inexperienced young man who wants his wealthy uncle to guarantee his debts and insure him against all other trouble while he shakes off all advice and control.

Dr. Gibbons is convinced after a long study of the situation that the Philippines would have no chance of maintaining their "complete independence" or of sustaining themselves economically. Since many Filipinos do not appreciate what the United States has done for them and wish to be rid of American tutelage, he suggests that arrangements be made for Japan to take a mandate over the islands. He considers a Japanese mandate as the only practical alternative to continued American supervision.

This suggestion need not be taken too seriously in the United States. Dr. Gibbons was talking for Filipino consumption. Would they like to have administration of the islands turned over to the Japanese? If they would not, it is time to end the agitation for "immediate and complete independence." The very fact that the Filipino leaders talk so glibly about ideals and ignore facts is evidence that they are not competent to direct the affairs of a modern nation.

GANDHI SUSTAINED.

Danger of a radical uprising against the leadership of Mahatma Gandhi in the Indian movement for independence seems to have passed. Subhas Chandra Bose, leader of the revolutionary faction, withdrew his opposition when it became apparent that sentiment was overwhelmingly in favor of Gandhi's program of nonviolence. The policy-forming body of the All-India National Conference has accepted Gandhi's program and named him as chief delegate to the second round-table conference in London. This action foreshadows unanimous indorsement for the mahatma. He will go to London with the eyes of all India on him and the hands of all India ready to sustain his program.

The peaceful outcome of the Anglo-Indian controversy now hinges upon the next London conference. The Nationalists refused to participate in the late conference. While statesmen pondered over the fate of India and sought a solution that would meet India's demand without exposing that vast country to chaos, Mahatma Gandhi was conducting a civil disobedience campaign. Both sides have learned lessons from that campaign, and both seem to have become more conciliatory. Gandhi has been shocked by the rise of radicalism which his campaign of civil disobedience encouraged, while the British government has been impressed by the determination of the Indians to gain self-government. The mood on both sides is favorable for compromise.

The native conference again demands absolute independence for India, but it will accept for the time being something like dominion status. Gandhi will be sent to London to negotiate on that basis. In the meantime the boycott on British goods will not be lifted. The fight against British rule is by no means ended; it is merely postponed while Gandhi makes another effort to win India's cause by diplomacy.

Prospects for success of this second conference seem to be much brighter than when the delegates met in London some months ago. Non-British India is ready to join in a great federation if satisfactory arrangements can be worked out. The old racial feuds between the Hindus and Moslems are not yet settled. A governmental structure which can keep India's turbulent millions at peace must be set up. But the chances of reaching an agreement seem to be more favorable than at any time since the latest agitation began. If the conference fails the independence movement will go on, and the advocates of revolution by violence will have everything in their favor.

It's odd that some of the champions of the dole in the last session of Congress have not volunteered to cross the pond and help Britain out of her economic entanglements.

That young pedagogue who resigned because he could not refrain from using violent language must have been teaching current history.

SUICIDE

From the London Times.

In his address on "The Psychology of Suicide," Dr. Crichton-Miller expressed the view that self-slaughter is a problem of fear. Those who take their lives, he said, are usually faced by a situation of conflict which has become intolerable. In a further analysis he differentiated three main types of conflict—namely, frustration, ostracism, and religious anxiety. Some commit suicide, on this showing, from fear of hunger; others from disappointment in their relations with the opposite sex; others as a consequence of having offended or of fearing to offend against society. The fear of eternal punishment, paradoxically enough, drives men and women occasionally to their deaths. If that is the psychology of suicide, it seems pertinent to ask further why so many people who are subjected to fears and anxieties of a prolonged and excessive character manage nevertheless to go on struggling against them. Dr. Crichton-Miller, like Hamlet, thinks that it is the dread of that something after death which serves in a large number of instances to turn the scale, and believes that the weakening of faith in eternal punishment has played some part in increasing the number of suicides. He looks upon the evolution of the emotion of love as a further cause, because men and women now tend to lay more stress on the emotional side of mating and less upon the parental side.

It is difficult perhaps to dissociate any study of suicide from statistical and pathological facts. The period of life when this crime is most common is not, as is frequently stated, early youth, but late middle age. Again disease plays an important part. Some observers are of opinion that nobody in sound physical health ever commits suicide. The advancing study of the brain and nervous system, and of the relations existing between these organs and the ductless glands, is providing evidence in favor of that view, and so is the study of such diseases as epidemic encephalitis. Presumably if the excitability of nervous tissue is raised beyond a certain point normal powers of inhibition become inadequate to control impulse.

It is true of course that a violent stimulus acting on an organism in normal health is equivalent in its effect to an ordinary stimulus acting upon an abnormally sensitive organism; and it may be therefore that there is a point of provocation at which the majority will tend to destroy themselves. But, since suicide is relatively very infrequent, the presumption must be that this point is seldom or never reached in ordinary experience, and that the condition of the organism itself rather than the circumstances in which it lives is the determining factor. In late middle age disease, in the modest phrase of a wise physician, "comes home to roost." There is hope therefore of reducing the numbers of suicides by improving the general health.

POST HASTE.

This is the off year when one-man political deliveries are made of entire States with all the positiveness of a one-Mann electoral college.

Let us hope that the writers on the Arizona who visited the West Indies in search of local color will not be surprised into painting too dark a picture.

"Man travels around the world on dimes he has saved." Must have been repeating on John D.'s bounty.

The smile on Secretary Adams' face is due to the fact that he has been superseded as the Virgin Islands' miracle man.

Spanish students again shout "Death to the king!" but a $38,000,000 Morgan loan to Alfonso means life to the peseta.

The national political committees do offer their problems this year—the wet Mr. Raskob and the dry Senator Pess; the half-million-dollar dead horse to be paid for and the wild Mann in the black belt.

Surely it's not yet too late to remedy the inconsistency of having a hurrah campaign for the American flag and then sending the children abroad on a foreign ship.

"Russia enters the world wheat conference." Yes, long enough to say she wouldn't enter, would not reduce her wheat acreage and would not consider a preferential tariff. That's Soviet cooperation.

The visit of Montague Norman, governor of the Bank of England, has been ascribed to everythig except its real purpose—he came to see the cherry blossoms.

Peru awakened from her recurrent nightmare to realize that the wages of revolution is debts.

Since the Farm Board declines to be smothered in any more wheat, fertile minds in Oklahoma propose that the board lease 20,000,000 acres of wheat land and let it join the unemployed. Here is an idle dream for Senator Reed to shoot at.

Gandhi's threat to kill himself if not supported by the conference worked like a charm with those good people who wouldn't kill a fly.

Why can't Senator Caraway say just once that he's for Senator Robinson without but-ing in Gov. Roosevelt as his second choice?

The wheat problem seems to be up to the Bureau of Standards. Couldn't it be used for paving or something?

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

AT THE LAST.

There is so little to be said
Within the presence of the dead.
Although so still and calm they lie,
They know what friends are standing by,
Whose eyes are filled with tears, and who
Have hurried in the tasks to do.

The years have taught them all these things:
Who heeds the doorbell when it rings;
Who is the first to come and stay;
Who kneels beside the bier to pray.
They know whose hands the flowers arrange,
And if they didn't 'twould be strange!

If love has prompted us to give
Devoted service while they live,
They know that we will carry on
And still be true, although they're gone.
They know we'll do the last sad tasks
Which love or friendship ever asks.

There is so little to be said
Within the presence of the dead,
For always in the silent room,
Made lovely by a bower of bloom,
Their peaceful faces seem to say:
"I knew that you'd be here today!"

When the Driver No Longer Controls His Dogs, They Will Turn and Devour Him.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

IT IS axiomatic that all authority tends to multiply itself. Give a king or a constable authority to enter your yard and within a year he will be prying into your strongbox.

That explains why the price of liberty is eternal vigilance.

And it explains why the American people need a lesson in the purpose and duties of government.

Man is by nature and by right free of all restraints except those he imposes on himself. In his natural state he is as free as other animals in a natural state.

Government isn't natural. It is something invented by man for his own convenience and good. It is no more ordained of God than the rules of a lodge or a golf club.

Every citizen of a free land must keep that fact in mind if he would preserve his liberties.

Free men form a government for their mutual protection. They select men to serve them—to suppress nuisances and enforce rules—and each contributes his share to the support of the organization.

The sole purpose of a government is to serve those who organize and support it.

But in a nation of millions the business of government of necessity becomes a vast and complicated matter, with innumerable departments and countless rules and regulations, and public servants lose touch with the people.

It is then that tyranny develops and public servants begin to think the government more important than the people.

Mr. Hoover recently quoted with approval President Cleveland's declaration that it is the business of the people to support the Government—not the Government's business to support the people.

That is true. The members of the club must pay their dues.

But it is the business of the government to serve the people. That is its sole business. And when it impudently attempts to do more than that the people must rebuke it.

Liberty is doomed when the people concede that government is a master instead of a servant.

PRO AND CON

Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great Show, "Politics," Staged in Congress.

A Genuine Democrat.

Rock Island Argus.

The other day Senator James Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois, called at the White House, only to discover that President Hoover was out motoring. The senator left his card, at the same time expressing his regret. He remarked that in his time he had reproved Republican senators because they failed to support "the office of President" during the Wilson regime, and that he hoped there would be opportunities for him to give his support to President Hoover in many ways notwithstanding their different political affiliations.

There is no reason for regarding Senator Lewis' action as amounting only to a polite guesture. He is more likely to be found on the side of the President than some who call themselves Republicans, but who repudiate Republican policies and platforms and take delight in heckling the President. Mr. Hoover will not be lacking in appreciation of the courtesy, and Illinois people, regardless of politics, like Mr. Lewis all the more because he made the White House call. In no way did Senator Lewis compromise his party or himself. He is known as a consistent Democrat, but consistent Democrats treat Mr. Hoover with far more ordinary courtesy and kindness than inconsistent Republicans.

Another evidence of the farsightedness of the Founders was the provision that adjourns Congress while the Caribbean cruise season is still on.

An interesting courtship now under way is the attempt of the G. O. P. and the Democrats to win the progressives.

Prohibition may not be the biggest issue in the next campaign, but if it gets in at all it will be big enough.

What Congress Does in Recess.

Houston Post-Dispatch.

What do congressmen do when Congress is not in session? Both houses adjourned the other day. The legislative mill was shut down eight months, the President of the United States left the country. Will the solons be in vacation until December?

The Washington Post answers the question with a resume of the activities the national legislators will be engaged in for the next few months. Investigations will keep many of them busy. There is the Nye committee, for instance. It has $50,000 to spend in probing politicians accused of too liberal spending in campaigns.

Another committee has been given $20,000 for use in investigating wild life—excluding the sons of wild jackasses, supposed to inhabit parts of the West, to quote The Post. This will keep five senators busy. Still another committee will inquire into the Alaska railroad, a line traversing a section where there is good hunting and fishing. Senator Blaine has $10,000 in his pocket to pay for ferreting out frauds in postoffice leases.

Senator Caraway will pursue the lobbyist, Senator Glass will probe banking, Senator Wagner will look into the dole, Senator La Follette will study the national economic council proposal, and the Senate elections committee will spend $25,000 trying to ascertain if there were fraud in the defeat of Senator Heflin in Alabama. All these gentlemen entrusted with probes, it will be noted, have been given money to spend.

All Pay and No Work.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Southern Republican Declares Progressives Would Ignore Mandate of the People.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Who are Progressives, is a question that may now be repeatedly asked of the various individuals who composed the recent political assemblage in Washington, called together and presided over by the redoubtable Senator Norris, of Nebraska. No one would covet the desire of others to be progressive, or to support progressive action, or to father progressive spirit, or to be progressive even in politics; but wherever a small group of people, representing a confessed minority and making up an altogether small percentage of the whole people and taking issue with the expressed purposes of the majority, deign to speak for the whole people, it appears that it is time to consult a political lexicon and change the name progressive to that more apt and expressive term "radical." And for one, there is here registered a firm protest against the use of the term "Progressive" in referring to those who speak and act against the registered and express will of the great majority.

Let us see. In 1928 Mr. Hoover went before the country on a declaration of principles set forth in what is ordinarily called a party platform. This included, in brief, promise of relief to the farmer, protective tariff, opposition to Government ownership of utilities, support and enforcement of liquor prohibition laws and other issues. At the end of an aggressive campaign, the present administration was elected by a sweeping majority and was placed in power. In this election there was noteworthy support of Mr. Hoover in the States now represented by many of the so-called Progressives—in Nebraska, where Senator Norris gave open support to the opposition, and in Iowa, North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Idaho and other States now represented by the insurgents. The opposition from these quarters was made manifest even before the administration had been given opportunity to demonstrate as to what it could or would do in connection with the various campaign pledges.

Wherein is there anything progressive in such action? To be progressive is one thing, and to seek reasonable reforms in the making and enforcement of laws is altogether to be desired; but when a small, self-constituted minority essays to speak for all the people, and this in the very face of an express mandate of the people to the contrary, it seems that it is time to stop and take stock of such brand of alleged progressive action.

The Republicans of the South, at times in discouraging minorities, and the people of the South, regardless of party, are demanding that the President be given a chance; that political hatreds be forgotten, and that the branches of the Government having to do with the making and enforcing of our laws be given an opportunity to carry into action the express mandates of the majority of the people. Nothing less than this is true representative Government.

SOUTHERN REPUBLICAN.

Trees in Washington Not Getting a Square Deal, Says an Observer.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: What if any thing can be done for the trees in our parks to bring out their natural beauty as we find them in the forests and on the countryside? The bark on many of the trees gives them an ugly appearance, and the limbs are knotted and gnarled instead of being clean, smooth and beautiful.

In the cities of the Middle West, rock maples—the acer family—are great favorites. Smooth bark, clean limbs, with shapely tops, providing unrivaled shade, they beautify the landscape in town and country. We see few or none of them here.

The graceful elm, which so beautifies the roadways and parks of New England, is so rare here as to escape notice. A few have grown old and shapeless and could be replaced, advantageously.

Some other varieties of rare beauty seem never to have wandered so far from their habitat as to reach the Capital City. It is not surprising that the trees along the streets are so unattractive. The soil above their roots is covered by pavement and sidewalk, except a possible dozen square feet about the tree, through which all the moisture for its sustenance must pass, except what can be gathered by the foliage. They are dying year by year and they will all pass, for their death sentence is proclaimed on every hand.

Some hope for the open spaces, however, lies in the selection of such trees as promise the best results, which will thrive in this climate.

A TREE LOVER.

Bystander Witnesses a Street Tragedy and an Old Man's Kindness.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In front of the old Land Office Building Friday morning I saw huddled against the coping a poor little nondescript dog. He had been hurt in traffic and his hind legs so badly injured that he could not move. The little animal was wrapped in an old coat—an old torn and tattered garment, but one that had afforded warmth of a degree to its owner. Beside the little dog's head was a paper cup filled with milk. A small bottle contained the balance and milk was scattered in little puddles where an attempt had been made to feed him. The little dog was past the point of being tempted with milk, however.

The man who had taken off his coat in which to wrap the pup is an old colored man who sells apples on the corner of Seventh and E streets northwest, by the old Land Office Building. Everything about him bespeaks his poverty. Yet in spite of that, and in spite of the fact, too, that perhaps he daily knows the pangs of hunger, he stood there, without his ragged coat, waiting for the Animal Rescue League to come for its little patient.

Perhaps a little publicity by your paper would bring a little trade for this good old soul. Surely this story carries a lesson for all of us.

A BYSTANDER.

BRIAND SPEECH HELD WARNING ON TREATY

Newspaper Declares France Unit in Fight Against Berlin and Vienna.

Paris, March 29 (A.P.).—Aristide Briand's Senate speech yesterday, in which he declared he would continue to the bitter end protesting against the proposed Austro-German customs accord, was interpreted today by the semiofficial newspaper Le Temps, as a warning to Berlin and Vienna.

"It must be understood," the newspaper said, "that the entire French nation supports the government in any diplomatic action calculated to thwart this customs union which would compromise Austrian independence and create a dangerous situation in central Europe."

Le Temps congratulated the foreign minister for taking a firm stand on an issue which France considers a violation of solemn engagements."

An indication of public support for vigorous protests was seen in a resolution by the Chamber of Deputies tariff committee demanding the creation of a general tariff barrier which would isolate Germany and Austria from the rest of the continent.

Vienna, March 29 (A.P.).—It was stated officially today that reports in a Paris newspaper to the effect the proposed Austro-German customs union contains a "secret military clause" directed against the little entente, are entirely without foundation.

Ender Minimizes Importance.

Otto Ender, chancellor of Austria, in a speech at Dornbirn tonight, minimized the importance of the proposed Austro-German Customs Union, which he described as a regional agreement by which Austria hoped to relieve her economic and industrial troubles.

She had concluded similar agreements with Hungary, Jugoslavia and Czechoslovakia, he said, but when she sought such an arrangement with Germany all Europe rose in protest. All neighboring states were invited to join, making this the first step toward European economic unity, he declared, but the mere suggestion of including Germany brought dismayed objections.

Referring to criticism of Austria for failure to prohibit emigration and import from Soviet Russia, the chancellor declared cooperation of the United States with European powers is indispensable to any united action against Russia but that in the circumstances such collaboration appeared to be out of the question.

Poland Welcomes Pilsudski at Home

Marshal Is Back in Better Health; Two Daughters First to Greet Him.

Gdynia, Poland, March 29 (A.P.).—Marshal Pilsudski, who has been away from Poland since last December, came back today on the destroyer Wisher but the official reception was sidetracked while two little girls flew into their father's arms.

The official salute was booming and Premier Slawek, accompanied by government officials, stood aside while Wanda and Jadwiga Pilsudski hugged and kissed the marshal.

His cheeks were tan, his step vigorous, and it was obvious his vacation at Madeira had improved his health immensely. He boarded a special train which was scheduled to land him in Warsaw at midnight.

Chinese Ignore Foreign Rights in Arresting Red

Foochow, China, March 29 (A.P.).—Disregarding protests from the American and Dutch consuls, the provincial military entered the Methodist Episcopal Mission Hospital here today and arrested a Dutch subject of Chinese parentage on charges of spreading communism.

The incident was part of the local authorities' anticommunistic campaign. The action was considered in foreign circles here to be a violation of the mission's extraterritorial rights.

Zeppelin Encounters Severe Storm on Flight

Budapest, Hungary, March 29 (A.P.).—The Graf Zeppelin, cruising to Hungary on one of her first flights this spring, ran into one of the worst storms she ever has encountered, and terminated her trip from Friedrichshafen here this morning.

She moored for 15 minutes while Nicholas Horthy, Hungarian regent, welcomed Capt. Lehmann, the commander, and a number of passengers, then cast off and started back for her home port.

Poet Laureate to Speak.

Istantbul, March 29 (A.P.).—John Masefield, poet laureate of England, arrived here today for a lecture at Angora next Wednesday.

Aswell's Son Decides Not to Run for House

(Associated Press.)

James B. Aswell, jr., 25-year-old son of the late Louisiana representative, announced yesterday he would not be a candidate to succeed his father.

Young Aswell, a writer, had been urged by friends to run for the unexpired term from the Eighth District, which his father represented for eighteen years. Gov. Huey Long has announced he will call a special election probably for May 12.

"I could find no record of my poll tax I thought had been paid last year," he said. "Rather than face any sort of contest over it at this time, I decided against running. I want to take this opportunity to thank my friends who have asked me to carry on my father's career."

Aswell said he would return to Louisiana and live on the farm he inherited from his father. For the last few years he has been engaged in newspaper and fiction writing in New York City.

DECREASE IN SOVIET CRIME IS REPORTED

Murder and Bootlegging Drops; 4,532 Convicted for Slayings.

Moscow, March 29 (A.P.).—Crime in Soviet Russia appears to be on the downgrade, especially murder and bootlegging, according to figures just completed by the National Institute for Research into crime and criminals.

The institute's statistics for the first six months of 1930, show 4,532 convictions in the Soviet Union for murder (the figures do not include the smaller republics) against 7,431 for the first six months of 1929.

In a similar period of 1929 there were 21,304 convictions for bootlegging, or illegal manufacture of vodka, the national fiery drink, whereas there were only 8,875 arrests for this during the same period last year. Production of liquor is a government monopoly.

Convictions for holdups in 1929 totaled 2,164 against 1,469 last year, while sexual crimes dropped from 4,854 to 3,106 in 1930.

There is no death sentence for murder in Russia, the maximum penalty being ten years' imprisonment. Death by shooting is meted out to some political prisoners only, but figures in this category were not obtainable. Some months ago the newspaper published that 48 counter-revolutionists had been executed at one time.

According to Prof. David Rubenstein, head of the institute, the decrease in crime is due to liquidation of unemployment, and in the country districts to the collective farm movement. Greater decreases are expected during the current year, when labor shortage is said to be the greatest in the history of the country.

Prof. Rubenstein said the Soviets are increasing their efforts to reform criminals rather than to punish them.

Many reform schools for youths have no guards, the institutions being conducted on the honor system.

Fear of Epidemic Revived in Alaska

Supply of Diphtheria Antitoxin Low and Many New Cases Developing.

Point Barrow, Alaska, March 29 (A.P.).—With the supply of antitoxin dwindling fast and new cases developing both here and at inland points, the diphtheria epidemic raging here for almost a month again held this little village in a grip of fear today. It was believed several days ago the disease had been controlled.

The only hospital is overcrowded and quarantined houses are full of patients. A vacant house is being prepared to accommodate those showing improvement in their condition.

All available beds and bedding are in use and the house floor will be covered with reindeer skins and other furs to accommodate the patients. Miss Flossie George Young, Eskimo school teacher, and a student nurse, will be placed in charge.

25 Jugoslavian Homes Burn.

Belgrade, Jugoslavia, March 29 (A.P.).—Twenty-five homes in the village of Lukodolaka Draja were destroyed by fire today.

Italy-America Society Gives Embassy Fete

150 Guests Entertained With Piano Concert by Carlo Zecchi.

WITH the Italian Ambassador and Donna Antoinetta de Martino and members of the staff receiving, about 150 guests gathered at the embassy yesterday afternoon for the meeting of the Italy-America Society of Washington, when a concert was given by the young Italian pianist, Carlo Zecchi.

Donna Antoinetta, noted for her chic, looked particularly charming in a gown of pale gray chiffon, fashioned in long, flowing lines, with which she wore a handsome collar of pearls.

In keeping with the Easter season, a profusion of lilies was used to decorate the large drawing room where the guests assembled for the concert, which began at 3 o'clock. The artist, who incidentally, is making his first appearance in the United States this year, was introduced by the president of the Italy-America Society, Dr. David Jayne Hill. Signor Zecchi only recently returned from a tour of South America and Europe, where he achieved an enviable reputation for his work.

Following the concert, the guests lingered for tea, which was served in the dining room.

WITH twelve months of solid performance and progress behind it, the symphony orchestra directed by Howard Barlow celebrates the first anniversary of its founding tomorrow night (WMAL, 9:30 o'clock) when a special program marking the occasion will be broadcast.

New York critics attended the opening performance last year, when the orchestra made its debut over a network of eighteen stations, and adjudged the organization an interesting radio experiment of great potential cultural value. Since then the orchestra has added to its listeners until now its music is being heard over 182 stations, including spot stations, every week.

Howard Barlow, conductor of the orchestra since its organization, is slim, energetic and considered one of the most accomplished young conductors devoting full time to radio. The Columbia system has made him musical consultant on all its programs. Musically, his standing is comparable to that of the conductors who are affiliated with the great municipal orchestras of the country.

THE Swedish contralto, Sigrid Onegin is the fifth singer offered in the Monday night series of half-hour broadcasts (WMAL, 8:30 o'clock). She has selected the "Habanera" and "Gypsy Song" from "Carmen;" Brahms' "Sapphic Ode;" Schubert's "Der Erlkoenig," and "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice."

The fifteen-minute musical program offered by Underwood & Underwood each Tuesday night (WRC, 6:15 o'clock) is a different and musical period. Three violins and a piano are used and many of the effects obtained with this combination are pleasing to the ear.

The Gold Medal Express, bringing Ohman and Arden, two-piano duo; a novelty orchestra, a male trio and Roy Smeck, guitarist, will arrive for radio listeners via the WJZ network tonight at 8:30 o'clock.

This program is in addition to the Fast Freight over WMAL each Wednesday evening.

IT has been announced by the CBS that the series of radio presentations sponsored by Columbia Concerts Corporation, which was to have concluded last Wednesday, will be continued for another month. On Wednesday (WMAL, 10:45 p. m.) the guest singer will be Chief Yowlache, Indian bass-baritone.

Introducing "Miniature Movies," Gus Van will make regular appearances over WJZ'S network Tuesday nights at 7:15 o'clock.

A two-century old New Orleans legend is basis for "The Date Tree," an original one-act play written for the radio, to be heard in the Radio Playbill on Wednesday afternoon (WRC, 3:30 o'clock).

The distinction of being the deepest basso-profundo in the world is claimed by Alexander Kurochkin, who will be heard with the Kremlin Art Quintet when the Wednesday night series of half-hour broadcasts is inaugurated this week (WJZ, 11:30 p. m.).

RETURNING to the air after a two weeks' illness, Morton Downey will be guest soloist in the Paramount-Publix Radio Playhouse tomorrow night (WMAL, 10:30 p. m.).

Motion picture stars to be heard Wednesday night are Richard Dix (WMAL, 8:30 p. m.), and Claudette Colbert (WMAL, 10 p. m.).

To install the synchronization system on a national scale so that the same program could be broadcast on a single wave length would cost from $35,000,000 to $50,000,000, according to an estimate made by M. H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Co.

ONE of radio's most famous sopranos, Jessica Dragonette, has not for one moment accepted her success and let down from the old routine. She continues her vocal lessons from one of the most famous teachers in New York, also her Spanish and French lessons.

Aare INTERPRETS the MODE

An extremely graceful summer evening dress of yellow silk organdie and beige lace; with detachable cape and matching lace gloves. (A Dah-ray design.)

Paris, March 29, 1931.

SILVER threads among the gold—and does that break her heart? Anything but! In fact, if she hasn't any silver threads among the gold she's quite liable to go and get 'em and pay good round dollars for the privilege of flattering her still young features with a soft silvery halo.

For it is the whim of the moment, my dear, to change the color of your hair with your mood or your costume. Antoine (pronounced "An-twahn"), the famous hair artist of Paris, says that the modern woman indulges in this not only for vanity and caprice, but from the very practical standpoint of time-saving—thus instead of spending a couple of hours going to, from and being at the hair dressers, she sends her evening coiffure over to be dressed while she employs the time much more profitably.

But whether as a time saving idea or just a whimsical one, I for one am absolutely delighted with this new mode of having two or three wigs. Because you see modern wigs don't look a bit "wiggy"—quite on the contrary they usually look a great deal better than your own coiffure, and stay dressed ever so much better. This is surely because they are made of human hair that has belonged to one of those fortunate women born with the kind of hair that just naturally never gave her any trouble. As to being cumbersome, or artificial looking or hot on the head, those are all ideas and nothing more—and I know what I'm talking about, because I possess and wear at this moment buy another one exactly the color of two different wigs, and am about to my own hair and dressed exactly as I wear my hair, for the very simple reason that I know it will behave ever so much better than my own hair ever thought of behaving!

The initial expense is something to be considered, of course, but that distributes itself over the amount of time and trouble that you save. And a modern wig is no more weight on your head than your own coiffure, and I defy even an expert to discover that it is not your own hair.

And now I have to tell you more about these white wigs, and how to turn your own hair white, later, meaning another day, because I am at the end of my space!

I have simply tons and tons of the loveliest hand-made French lingerie, and still I didn't have a thing, honestly, that I could wear with all of my new dresses which are so very hip-lifting. So I, and The-French-Maid-Who-Is-Spanish, reluctantly put all of the pretties away for another day and another mode, and got busy with a lot of new panties all based on the bloomer pattern which is made of exactly one yard of material, is all cut on the bias in back so that there is plenty of room for sitting and yet it does not have to be gathered around the waist and consequently shows no gathers whatsoever under the dress. And knowing that you were having exactly the same trouble making your lingerie conform to the lines of your new frocks, I made an illustrated leaflet which gives you again the directions for making this practical bloomer, as well as some of the darling variations based on this basic design which we made from my own lingerie box. If you send a stamped self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of the Washington Post, the leaflet will be yours!

Just to show you how nice I really am, I've illustrated for you today the gorgeous summer evening dress that was designed for me by a famous Parisian artist, and made by my little-dressmaker-around-the-corner — and just arrived this minute in all of its so-flattering loveliness. 'Tis yellow silk organdie and beige shadow lace, and every incrustation of the lace is planned to go something special and flattering to my particular type of figure. And if you have a good dressmaker she ought to be able to copy it for you from this sketch, and I'll let you, what's more!

Did you read Dare's weekly fashion letter yesterday? We hope so. And another will appear in next Sunday's Washington Post.

Au revoir!

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

The High Cost Of Loving.

WE, in our sublime innocence and optimism had supposed that there had been put to us about every possible question relative to the tender passion, which only goes to show how even an oracle can be wrong. For now comes Lou and wants to know just how much a lover should be expected to spend in the business of loving! Shades of Dante and Beatrice, what have we here? What did Romeo pay for whatever it was he tendered to Juliette as he stepped nimbly from the rain pipe that led him to her feet? How often did he call? And did he each time bear some tribute other than the adoration in his eyes?

This is a terrible age for love. It seems to be no age for tender passion but a great age for getting what's coming to you. Perhaps we are a horrible example of simple atavism. Perhaps we belong in another age or world. Perhaps we were once a tearful Juliette star-eyed in the mouldy castle, asking only the boon of young eyes adoring to the point of tears. There is certainly something the matter with us. For it makes us feel weak and a little ill when a young girl asks us how much should expect her lover to spend in proving his love. It seems horrible. Downright horrible, cold, and calculating, and mean and hard. Will this girl ever feel anything deeper than a rather fleeting satisfaction at having secured a provider of fur coats?

Dear Frances MacDonald: I am in love with a man four years older than I. He is very serious about getting married and making a home for me and all that. And he is the only one I can even see. But I want to ask you frankly how much I should expect him to spend upon me each week. The trouble being that I fear he is close. We have gone together one year. Here is our program. He comes to my home three times a week. Saturday we go out to dinner and a show. Almost always a movie. That bores me. Other girls are always being taken to real shows. We have been there about 10 times in the year. Others go every week. On Sunday we go somewhere with some other couple coming to my home or theirs for supper and play bridge.

That is all right. I like the Sunday evenings at home and father almost insists upon it. O. K. The third evening we do not go anywhere and he rarely brings even candy with him. Is it not up to him to do so? I do not care much about it, but I could pass it around. And it would show he knew what was what. He has sent me flowers about six or seven times in all. And his Christmas gift was satisfactory. He asked what I wanted. I picked a $25 gift and that was that.

Now I feel like this. He is 32. He talks marriage. What is he talking about if he can not afford a theater ticket? Is he pipe-dreaming? Of course, he always says it could not be for two more years. But even so. Other fellows who do not harp on marriage seem to be nearer that goal. My girl friend thinks I should give him up. She and her friend take in a real show every week. He has given her dozens of lovely small gifts. What is your opinion? I am no gold digger. I have given up boys who spent far more upon me. But does he think his marvelous sex-appeal is going to take the place of all those others and their attentions? I am very fond of him. But if I once decided he was one of these penny nursers I would pass him right on to some one else who liked that sport. So tell me, please, what is a reasonable sum or an average for a man to spend on a girl he really loves.

THE GIRL LOU.

Now, if you like frankness, there is it in large gobs. If you like romance you can just go and turn your face to the wall and weep.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

FLOWERING BULBS, ROOTS AND TUBERS FOR SPRING PLANTING.

AMONG the flowering bulbs and tubers we have some of our most gorgeous flowers, and because of this it seems a pity that many people who are really fond of flowers and quite successful with them, hesitate to grow summer-flowering bulbs. They have an idea that these plants require more attention than they have time to give them, and they are equally sure that they will live only in cerain kinds of soil.

This is a mistake. None of the bulbs belonging to this class are difficult to raise and they will all grow in an open spot in your garden and in any moderately rich soil.

When you are purchasing any of these plants, I advise ordering them from any reliable firm. They may cost a few cents more, but a firm that values its reputation never sells a bulb from a patch which has any traces of disease among the crop.

Some varieties require a great deal of sun, while others, such as tuberous begonias, fancy-leaved caladiums and lily of the valley, will do well in partial shade.

The depth at which you should set these bulbs at the time of planting depends on the size of the bulbs.

The anemone (Japanese Windflower) belongs to this class of plants and is one of the most gorgeous of our hardy garden perennials, as well as one of the most useful and desirable varieties. Its colors range from pure white to deep crimson.

The windflower simply revels in a sunny location; it does well in a good rich soil and always resents a low marshy soil. It begins to bloom in August and continues to send forth a wealth of blossoms until October. You will be thankful for some of these blossoms for your table in the late fall—and remember that the more you cut the more you will have.

And the old-fashioned bleeding heart (dielytra) that is well known, is just as popular today as it was in our grandmother's day when it smilingly peeped over the primmest box-edged paths. The name "bleeding heart" was given it because of its dainty, pink, heart-shaped flower. This is one of the few varieties that does well in a semishady location, and it cares not one whit whether it grows in good loam or clay. It is most attractive when planted in front of a shrubbery border.

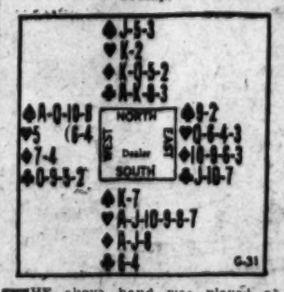
WORK ON BRIDGE

How to Get Rid of a Superfluous Trump.



THE above hand was played at Contract Bridge; South bid one Heart, West one Spade, North three Clubs (a forcing jump-shift), East passed, South bid three Hearts, West passed, and North's four Hearts was the final bid.

At Auction Bridge South would have bid one Heart, West one Spade, and North probably would have called two Hearts which would have ended the auction.

In the play, West, shunning the tenace suit which he had bid and East had failed to support, opened with the Deuce of Clubs; North won with the King and led the King and another Heart. South finessed the second Heart and, when West refused, found himself with an Ace-Jack over East's Queen-Six. But South then held four Hearts to East's two and North had no more Hearts to lead through East.

Declarer led four rounds of Diamonds, discarding a Spade from South on the fourth; next the King and another Club from dummy, South ruffing the latter. South then led the King of Spades which West won and led the Queen; South had to trump and lead up to East's Queen of trumps which took the last trick and Declarer was held to eleven tricks.

Could all of East's trumps have been captured?

The Correct Play.

When Declarer found that he was sitting with four trumps over East's two, he should have played as follows:

Trick 4 a Club won by North, after which (East being marked with three Clubs and so unable to discard) a third round of Clubs from North ruffed by South. South then would have only one trump more than East. Trick 5 the Ace of Diamonds, and then the Jack of Diamonds won by South. Tricks 8 and 9, winning Diamonds from North on the second of which South would discard a Spade. Trick 10 North's last Club ruffed by South, leaving South and East each with two trumps; and then (trick 11) the King of Spades which West would win. Then, no matter what West led to trick 12, the lead would be through East's Queen-Six up to South's Ace-Jack and Declarer would take twelve tricks—two more than his contract.

YOUR NAME

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph.D.

THE family name "Buck" has two quite different English sources.

Although it is frequently a nickname taken from the animal which is so-called, it is perhaps most often derived from the Old English "buco" meaning "the beech-tree." When the name is derived from the latter source it indicates an original place of residence near such a tree. The commonest early spellings of this name are "Buk," "Bok" and "Boke." The Hundred Rolls mentions a Richard Boke and a Thomas Buk. A document of the year 1313 bears the name of Roger Buk.

The family name "Nolan" (also spelled "Nowland" and "Noland") is of Irish origin. In almost all cases it is the modern form of the original Irish "O Nuallachain" which means "the descendant of Nuallan." The personal name "Nuallan" is a diminutive form of the adjective "nuall" meaning "noble" and "famous." Hence, "Nolan" may be translated "the descendant of the little nobleman." In a few cases "Nolan" has been adopted as a shortened form of the quite different name "O Huallachain."

The family name "Hoolihan" (also spelled "Houlihan" and "Holohan") is the modern form of the original Irish "O Huallachain" which means "the descendant of Uallachan." The personal name "Uallachan" is a diminutive form of the adjective "uallach" meaning "proud." Hence, "Hoolihan" may be translated "the descendant of the little proud man." This name was once very common in West Cork. However, many families in that district have now changed their names from "Hoolihan" to "Holland." In Mayo and Roscommon it is sometimes changed to "Nolan."

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"ARIES."

IF March 30 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:30 a. m. to 10:10 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3:45 p. m. and from 8 p. m., to 9 p. m. The danger hours are from noon to 1:30 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to midnight.

There will be a tendency for moods on March 30 owing to the planetary aspects in operation, and all the world his wife will appear plotting against you. In spite of your personal efforts or feelings, however, the day's ledger will be balanced in your favor, and progress will be made in the right direction.

The child born on this March 30 will have an extremely sensitive nature underneath a very positive exterior, and it will suffer in silence. Temperamentally it will be an ardent lover and a violent hater. Its life history is marked by periods of ill luck intermingled with success.

If born on a March 30, what is your make-up? First, you have ambition and are born for action. You are not too ambitious to be happy, are not a mere self-seeker, but you love to be in the thick of things and you fight to win. If you see a mess, you feel an instinctive urge to clear it up. When at work you lose yourself in your job. You have good powers of concentration, and are not easily distracted.

You have a great deal of pride, expressed in dignity, not arrogance, and you are naturally respected. People instinctively keep their proper distance from you, and seldom attempt so-called familiarities. You sometimes wish that you could be more free and easy, but it is best for you to stick to your natural role, which becomes you.

If you be a woman, you belong to the pioneer type, who make good wives and comrades. You have high ideals, splendid courage, resourcefulness, plenty of love and pity, and true understanding. You would never let your mate down, and you would forgive him seventy times seven. Once you are through with any one, however, you are through for good. Both men and women born on this date are fond of home life, and make devoted and loving parents. You choose your friends because of their personalities or characters, and not because of their rank.

Successful people born March 30:
Roswell Smith, founder of Century Magazine and St. Nicholas.
John Fisk, author.
DeWolf Hopper, actor.
Archer Alexander, fugitive slave, and model for the Freedman's Memorial.
Lucius Ward Bannister, lawyer.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

SYMPTOMS OF APPENDICITIS.

A CORRESPONDENT asks for an article on appendicitis and especially on the symptoms thereof. Pain is one of the first and most instructive symptoms. We are apt to forget that pain serves many useful purposes. Man could not do without it. The good it is capable of doing is almost enough to offset the harm. So important is it in the life history of man that an equipment for receiving, tranamission and registering pain is set up in the body.

The pain of appendicitis has more than one message for those who know enough to read. At first it is colicky in character, somewhat of a griping pain, coming from somewhere in the abdomen. A colicky pain with no diarrhea is apt to mean early appendicitis. This pain means that the disease is just starting, the intestinal wall has not been much damaged, and peritonitis is not present.

If an examination be made at this time tenderness generally locates the griping pain in the appendix region. Closer study of the sick man's symptoms shows some leucocytosis, some fever and some tendency to vomiting or nausea.

Then the pain changes its language. It is now a steady burning and all colicky character has been lost. When the pain speaks thusly it means that the appendicitis has progressed. The tube wall is paralyzed and localized peritonitis is beginning, or is on its way. With this pain there goes more local tenderness and the muscles of the abdominal wall, especially in the appendix region, are rigid.

Study of the symptoms shows that the fever is rising, the pulse is running faster, the leucocyte count is increasing. Plainly, the local peritonitis is increasing. Then the pain may disappear. This may be the "time of the truce of the bear." It may mean gangrene. Nerves that are badly shot to pieces can not register or transmit pain. If the tenderness is increasing and spreading, there is apt to be abscess formation as well as local gangrene. Each of the other symptoms may change its tune, and the change may have a meaning.

A marked, rapid rise in the leucocyte count means considerable resistance to the infection, and is apt to be a good sign. A drop in the leucocyte count may mean that the appendicitis is coming under control. On the other hand, it may mean that resistance is giving up the fight.

A high fever may be a good sign. But a generalized peritonitis may cause too much fever. Vomiting may be a good sign, indicating that the stage of paralysis of the bowel has not been reached. But it may change its tune a little and be a bad sign, indicating extended peritonitis, or it may upset digestion and absorption of water so as to threaten life.

INFLAMMATION OF VEINS.

H. Y. S. writes: What causes inflammation of the veins? Is there any cure for it? If so, what is it? Is it very serious?

REPLY.

The probability is that phlebitis, or inflammation of a vein, is the result of infection by some disease-producing microbe. The microbe is liable to be in the blood. It is apt to be a serious condition, principally because of complication such as blood clots. Many cases of milk leg are cases of phlebitis. There are forms of phlebitis that are more serious than milk leg.

NEEDS MENTAL TRAINING.

J. S. writes: My father is 65 years old and in good health except that he is obsessed by a fixed idea. This has been going on for two years, after his stock market losses. He eats well but sleeps very poorly. He tries to fight this fixed idea, but doesn't seem to be able to get permanent result. Do you think it is caused by anemia, or by lack of exercise? He doesn't go out very often, as he works all the time inside. His blood pressure is all right, his heart is good, and his general appearance is perfect. His obsession is that he is going to go insane and die. What would you recommend as a treatment?

REPLY.

Why blame anemia or lack of exercise when, as you say, worry and anxiety over the stock market is the cause.

Probably your father has a personality that moves up and down in a regular way and you may expect him to again go into the up stage.

Fortunately, those who anticipate insanity seldom become insane. What he needs is mental and emotional training. This is given by psychiatrists. Diathermy should help.

MUSIC TO FEATURE 3D PLAY PROGRAM

Neighborhood House Group to Have Charge of Concert Tonight.

Music specialists at Neighborhood House in this city will have charge of the third session of the Play Institute tonight in Wilson Teachers College, Eleventh and Harvard streets, at 8 o'clock. The 1931 Play Institute is being conducted by a committee headed by Mrs. Elwood Street, including representatives from leading recreational agencies in the Capital, sponsored by the Community Center Department.

Today's program will take up "Group Singing," and will be introduced by Mrs. Clara Neligh in a talk on the necessity of developing a more widespread use of music in all classes of society, notably among boys of all ages and adults. Girls and young women are far in the lead in this important type of recreation, according to the National Federation of Settlements, in the United States, which for the past five years has been maintaining a separate department for social music, with a field secretary traveling from city to city, aiding the various settlements in its promotion and development.

The demonstration of group singing will be given by Miss Erba Lucille Birney, director of the music school at Neighborhood House here, who since her arrival in Washington in July has organized two girls' choruses, a rhythm band for boys and a class of more than 31 piano students at Neighborhood House. Boys and girls, ranging in age from 6 to 16 years, are being taught music by modern methods under Miss Birney, who is a recent graduate of the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, N. Y., and the Ithaca Institution of Public School Music.

Miss Birney will divide her demonstration of group singing into four groups, for boys from 6 to 9 years, boys from 10 to 14 years, boys from 16 to 18 years, and for adults.

Registration for the remaining sessions may be made on Monday evening.

The sessions will be as follows: April 6, games for the home; April 13, games for the out of doors; April 20, an open evening and resume. Certificates will be awarded to those regularly attending the sessions of the Institute.

Douglas Fairbanks Is Hunting in India

Film Star Bags Panther; Aids Make Talkies of Animal Cries.

Cooch Behar, India, March 29 (A.P.).—Douglas Fairbanks, American film star, who is visiting her highness Maharini Sahiba, regent of the State of Cooch Behar, has forsaken everyday life for the jungles, where he spends his days hunting tigers, panthers and leopards. His hostess administers this tiny State in the Bengal district in behalf of her minor son.

Today Fairbanks bagged a large panther. He will take the skin home as a trophy for his wife, Mary Pickford. Victor Fleming and E. K. Tanaka, a Japanese, who are accompanying Mr. Fairbanks, are making sound motion pictures of the roaring of lions and tigers and other denizens of the Indian jungle.

In an address before the Cooch Behar University students the American actor compared Mahatma Gandhi, Indian Nationalist Leader, with George Washington, saying both had the same ideals of liberty.

12 Billions Spent By Governments

Federal, State and Local Costs Mount to $105 Per Capita.

New York, March 29 (A.P.).—Total expenditures of Federal, State and local government for the year ended June 30, 1928 were $12,609,000,000, an increase of 3.5 per cent over the preceding year, the eighth annual report of the National Industrial Conference Board released today disclosed.

Per capita cost was $105.20 for 1928, as compared with $103.04 the year before. An increase of 300 per cent over 1913 figures was shown by the 1928 totals. The report said the public debt was rapidly mounting and governmental expenditures grew twice as fast as the national income.

Of the total, the national Government spent 31.5 per cent, the States 14.5 per cent and the local governments 54 per cent. The Government further advanced expenditures 10.7 per cent in 1929 and 6 per cent in 1930 the report stated. Highway construction was given as the major expenditure of States and towns in the 1928 total.

German Antiriot Decree Effective

Usual Week-End Political Disturbances Are Nearly Absent.

Berlin, Mar. 29 (A.P.).—President Hindenburg's decree invoking the "dictatorship clause" of the constitution to curb political excesses appears to have had the desired effect, for Germany has not known such a quiet week-end as this one in many months.

The usual Saturday-to-Monday political riots were noticeably absent, although police closed down one national socialist meeting because a speaker advocated militant fascism and one communist meeting where a speaker ridiculed religion.

They arrested two gangs of bill posters representing the same parties. In no case was there any resistance.

Bruening in Office One Year.

The Coming Generation

Thousands of busy mothers all over the country send their children on daily errands to the A & P.

The mothers know the quality of A & P foods. They know the prices are rock bottom. So they can let even the toddlers go for supplies, sure that at A & P stores the kiddies will do just as good a shopping job as they would themselves.

All of which is very gratifying to us, not just because we're happy to be helping busy mothers, but also because we like to think of those multitudes of little A & P enthusiasts growing up all around us. It is promising for the future of our business. And the country too, for that matter. For A & P is an education in good food, good health, and good management.

Why a GAS REFRIGERATOR is the WORLD'S BEST BUY in an automatic refrigerator

Hostess Model (illustrated) Price $270, installed, ideal for families of 2 to 6 people. Makes 45 large ice cubes. One of the ten beautiful models.

A tiny gas flame takes the place of all moving parts.

HERE'S WHY!

● NO MACHINERY: Electrolux, The Gas Refrigerator, is entirely automatic yet non-mechanical. It hasn't a single moving part. A tiny gas flame and a trickle of water circulate the refrigerant that makes cold and freezes ice cubes.

● NO SOUND: There's never the slightest sound from Electrolux as long as you have it, because there's no machinery to make sound.

● ABSOLUTELY DEPENDABLE: No machinery to get out of order or complicated parts to need replacements.

● COSTS EVEN LESS TO USE THAN ICE: $1.80 a month, including both gas and water, is the average operating cost of Electrolux in Washington. 6 cents a day! Compare that with your present ice bills, with the operating cost of any other automatic refrigerator.

● HERMETICALLY SEALED: The refrigerant is hermetically sealed in rigid steel, and will never need renewal. It is merely 3½ pints of ordinary ammonia, little stronger than household ammonia. The gas flame is completely protected by an automatic shut-off.

● CONTINUOUS OPERATION: The Gas refrigerator doesn't alternately stop and start. It works all the time, therefore maintains an even, constant temperature; cannot interfere with your radio.

● EASY TO INSTALL: Connections for gas and water are quickly and easily made for you.

● FREE LIFETIME SERVICE: You get not merely a year's guarantee with Electrolux, but free service for the life of the refrigerator.

● PURCHASE PRICES REASONABLE: Electrolux prices are no higher than others, despite its many advantages. Prices range from $235 to $775 installed.

● SMALL DOWN PAYMENT—2 YEARS TO PAY: Only $10 a month pays for the average size Electrolux, with very small down payment.

● NO FINANCE CHARGES: You pay no finance charges at all when you buy Electrolux.

● COMPLETE LINE OF MODELS: Ten household models to choose from, ranging in size from 3 cu. ft. to 20 cu. ft. capacity.

If you buy your Electrolux immediately you get advantage of these special low purchase terms, and receive a $3 hydrator free. And you have your automatic refrigerator just when you need it most—at the beginning of hot weather. Electrolux is on display at all our showrooms. BONDS SELL LOWER DURING LAST WEEK

Gilt-Edged Issues Finish in Firmness With Some Quoted Higher.

New York, March 29 (A.P.).—The price trend of the bond market was downward last week. The Standard Statistics average price of 30 representative industrial, railroad and public utility obligations was 96.7 for the final session, compared with 97.3 one week previously.

Sharp fluctuations were recorded by a few issues for special reasons. Gilt-edged liens closed the week firm and unchanged and in some instances slightly higher. Fundamentally the market for such obligations continues favorable because of the prevailing easy money rates.

Railroad bonds provided the cleanest example of a downward group movement. The average price of ten members of this group reached a new 1931 low on Saturday at 101.7. Unfavorable reports of February earnings contributed to this recession and the reduction of dividends by the Baltimore & Ohio and the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western were accepted as evidence that railroad executives are not too sanguine for the immediate earnings prospects.

The action of Australian obligations attracted considerable attention. On the early days of the week the bonds of that Commonwealth declined sharply. Cables from London on Friday reported that it had been decided not to default on the dollar issues of these bonds, whereupon the issues of the Commonwealth government and of New South Wales rallied, but not sufficiently to leave both groups without substantial losses.

Flotations during the week totaled $142,999,000 compared with $76,699,000 for the preceding week. The former aggregate was swelled by the $50,000,000 4½ per cent issue of the Southern Pacific Co., but it was far lower than the record total of $269,108,000 for the week ended March 13, which was the largest weekly total since the week ended January 17, 1930.

Announcement of the details of the refunding financing of the Fox Film Corporation is expected within a day or two.

Level Plateau of Business Is Seen After Long Grade

Statisticians Believe Struggle That Has Continued All This Year Is Nearing Successful Culmination.

New York, March 29 (A.P.).—Having struggled up a long grade since the first of the year, business saw signs of the approach of a level plateau during the past week.

Inasmuch as the spring upturn in business usually reaches a peak around this time of year, it will be gratifying if it can move along on the level for a time. In its course through the spring months it often coasts down a mild grade, so even a little letdown later on should not shake the belief that the major business cycle has touched its nadir.

As a matter of fact, some observers feel that further improvement through April may be expected. The motor industry at least is planning further acceleration. If business can manage to point upward during much of the spring months, it may be accepted as further evidence that the business cycle has definitely turned into its long up-sweep.

A gradual upward trend throughout the first quarter of the year has at least generated new hope and lent fresh courage, banishing the paralyzing fears that attended the acute disturbances late in 1930. Appraisals of the progress made, however, vary widely. There is a tendency in most quarters to believe that deeper forces of recovery than the purely seasonal influences have been at work. There is considerable difference of opinoin as to whether the aggregate gain so far has been more or less than seasonal forces usually achieve.

The Guaranty Trust Co.'s survey, published today, says "evidence accumulates that the way is being cleared for business recovery and that the necessary readjustments to assure it are under way, but that this will be a slow and uneven process seems equally evident. That progress can not be accurately timed or measured, but that it seems to be started is of real importance and carries with it a degree of reassurance and improved business psychology."

A cautious note was sounded by Alfred P. Sloan, jr., president of General Motors Corporation, who said in an interview that the hope for recovery is brighter, "but there are no statistics to prove a change in trend, and any prophecy that business will be good at a certain time is merely a guess." He expressed the belief, however, that 1932 and 1933 will be good years.

Most conspicuous in last week's business statistics were estimates showing that the steady upturn in steel mill operations since the first of the year had at last been checked. It is felt, however, that building projects and automotive demand may cause some further acceleration in this major industry in April. Reports at the end of the week that recent advances in prices for bars, shapes and plates had been successful in stimulating new buying, and that there had been some unofficial concessions, were a little disheartening.

Building statistics indicated that contracts let in the third week of the month had undergone substantial shrinkage from the rate in the first two weeks, but the aggregate for the first 21 days was still about 40 per cent over February, or almost double the usual seasonal gain. April usually shows a gain of around 11 per cent over March.

A larger than seasonal gain in weekly freight car loadings and a smaller than normal increase in electric power consumption were due largely to special circumstances. Car loadings were boosted by a special movement of coal and power consumption was helped by an upturn on the Pacific Coast, where more was used for irrigation pumping.

Reports from retail trade, however, were cheering. The approach of Easter has provided considerable stimulation to apparel buying, and the aggregate business seems to have been the best so far this year. The revived textile industry is still maintaining its improvement, and recent statistics indicate that in some lines sales are considerably larger than production.

SURVEY BY BANKERS SEES BUSINESS GAIN

Guaranty Trust Co. Review Points to Evidences of Recovery.

New York, March 29 (A.P.).—The Guaranty Trust Company's monthly survey of business, published today, says that developments in commerce and finance during March "present the most encouraging signs in some time."

"Those who predicted earlier in the year that the business recession was gradually approaching bottom and that a measure of recovery could be expected some time during the subsequent months have so far had no reason to alter their reviews," asserts the Review.

"Evidence accumulates that the way is being cleared for business recovery and that the necessary readjustments to assure it are under way, but that this will be a slow and uneven process seems equally evident. That progress can not be accurately timed or measured, but that it seems to be started is of real importance and carries with it a degree of reassurance and improved business psychology.

"The slight upturn lately demonstrated by statistical indices is entirely supported by business reports. In general, the keynote of the present business situation is irregularity, which in itself offers a very hopeful sign at this particular phase of a major business movement; however, within this irregularity, the preponderance of evidence lies on the side of betterment."

Among the favorable signs noted by the company are the increases in employment, gains in steel, pig iron, building construction and automobile production. Also, the declines in cotton consumption, foreign trade and copper output were less than seasonal.

Eastern Racing Season Opens Today at Bowie With Charity Program

Opportunity Purse for 3-Year-Olds Features Card.

Maryland Tracks Aim to Raise $150,000 for Unemployed.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

THE Eastern racing season begins today with a charity program at Bowie of seven races, starting at 2:30 p. m., Eastern standard time, with "The Opportunity," a 7-furlong test for 3-year-olds as the feature. The Southern Maryland Agricultural Association season means charity, and every branch of the Bowie plant will contribute. Employes who are to get more than $10 a day, including the scores who man the parimutuels, will have their wages clipped for the unemployment fund; everybody will pay to get in the track, even the track officials; Harry Stevens, with restaurant concessions, was cheerful over the demand that all profits from his several cafes at the track be turned over to the welfare fund; the pari mutuels "take" and the net amount realized on the admissions will go for charity.

Gov. Albert Ritchie started this charity drive before the Legislature, and that body authorized the $6,000 tax for this extra day of racing be diverted to the coffers of the welfare drive. Charity days also have been arranged for the three other mile tracks in Maryland, the State tax swelling the fund with a total of $27,000, as Pimlico pays an extra $3,000.

Everyone Eligible To Donate.

There will, in addition, be large donations by horsemen, and the privilege of donating has not been denied the patrons. Washington and Baltimore are teeming with horsemen in from the South, and the special trains, buses and even airplanes are bringing large crowds from New York, Pennsylvania and the Virginias for the charity opening this afternoon. The charity feature, entered upon with misgivings, has stirred unusual interest, and people of every class are responding.

The official meeting begins tomorrow and will embrace eleven days of racing, which include three stakes of $3,000 value and one, the Kindergarten, for $2,500. The Inaugural, $5,000 added, features the card tomorrow.

The managers of the four major race tracks in Maryland held a conference with Gov. Ritchie some time ago, and the result was the four days for the unemployed. The impression prevails that the contribution of the tracks will total about $150,000, including the transfer of the $27,000 State tax. The addition of four extra days in Maryland racing means an additional $35,000 in track salaries and $40,000 more in purses.

Depression Hit Tracks.

The depression has hit the race tracks as well as other things, as last year's betting on the pari-mutuel plan shows. Total money bet in this manner in 1931 was $47,000,000, in round numbers, $7,000,000 short of 1929. Maryland enforces the smallest "take" or toll-dish in the country, 5 per cent and the "breaks" on a nickel. By the demand of Gov. Ritchie, for the four charity days in this State the take will be increased from 5 to 10 per cent. This will add thousands to the charity cause.

T. K. Lynch, veteran chartmaker on Maryland, Canadian and Florida racetracks, who arrived today from St. Johns, informed your correspondent that he had been offered the position of assistant general manager at Bowie, about which he was undecided, because of his personal friendship for Joseph A. Farrell, jr., incumbent. This adds to the reports current that there was a shake-up pending in the management of the Southern Maryland Association. Joseph A. Farrell, sr., a capable racetrack man, is at present general manager, and the assistant is his son. It is currently reported that J. P. Boyle will succeed soon the elder Farrell. Lynch is eli-

A.A.U. Boxers In Finals Tonight

Rockville Gym Scene of Titular Battles in 8 Classes.

Miller-Anderson Bout Looms as Feature of Program.

BOXING champions in every weight class will be crowned tonight at the Rockville High School Gymnasium as sixteen amateur pugs do battle among themselves in the final round of the second annual District A. A. U. championships. The octet of title-hinging brawls get under way at 8 o'clock and all are destined to go three rounds, except in the event of a tie, when extra rounds are in order.

Difficult in the extreme would be the task of picking the main event of the night out of the welter of fighting on the bill. The evening promises to develop eight "main events," for the connoisseurs of the ring game see in amateur fighting a brand of fury and recklessness which seldom crops up in the moneyed ranks of brulsers.

In order of their appearance tonight Lou Gevinson, of the Boys Club, will get the evening's pyrotechnics under way in his bout with Bill Normoyle, of the American Legion. They are flyweights. Gevinson rules a slight prefight favorite, being a shifty, hard little hitter, as fast as they come.

Shub to Battle Benden.

The bantamweight bout which follows brings together Leon Shub, Jewish Community Center boxing master, and Bill Benden, of the American Legion. Shub, something of a socker, defeated Bill Reed, of the Boys Club, and is looked upon tonight as the probable winner, his skill with his dukes being expected to make up for the boring-in tactics of Benden.

Then comes Mike Tardugno, who will be defending his featherweight championship as he stacks up against Johnnie Ryan, of the American Legion. The Jewish Community Center streak will be handled by Jim MacNamara, J. C. C. fight mentor, who will put in an appearance tonight to handle his charges despite orders of his physician to the contrariwise. Tardugno is in the best shape of his career and is expected to take the hard-hitting legionnaire.

One of the surprises of the tournament, the red-headed Bob Boyle, former G. W. University football player, will appear in the final of the lightweight division against Ben Reed, the lone Rockville boy on the night's card. Boyle has shown himself the possessor of a right-handed belt which, if it ever lands, will spell temporary amnesia to those on the receiving end. This should be a battle royal, for Reed is no cautious fighter himself.

Jocko Miller Meets Marine.

One of the features of the night will be Jocko Miller's fight with Walter Anderson, of the Twentieth Marines, of Washington. The Jewish Community Center boy, who last year won the lightweight title, is performing in his first finals as a welterweight. He has had more trouble winning in this division than he experienced last year as a lightweight, and is expected to be pressed to the limit tonight by the Marine.

Michael Joseph O'Connor, the fiery Red Sox A. C. fighter, whose heftily driven kayoed Ben Hill in the first round of their fight last Thursday, takes on J. Frank Nebel, jr., of the Washington Canoe Club, to decide the middleweight championship of Washington. Nebel will have to show a much better brand of fighting than he displayed against Warren Van Sciver to gain the verdict, but O'Connor should be much easier to hit than was Van Sciver.

LeRoy Bordeau, who has put up the best exhibition in the tournament to date—his unmatched victory Saturday night over Hank Irving—will be on hand with a crack at the lightheavyweight championship in his bout with Frank Vance, of the American Legion. Bordeau, fighting under the colors of the Jewish Community Center, is light-heavy champ of Georgetown University and a runner-up in the South Atlantic championships in 1929. No one in the tournament can punch like the stocky Hilltopper. He uses the short killing jab made famous by Jack Dempsey, and can back it up with good foot and head work.

Carpenter and Foe Pack Punch.

In the final bout on the greatest fight bargain program ever staged in this vicinity Ralph Carpenter, still another Jewish Community Center fighter, will engage Russ Wolfgram, of the American Legion, with the heavyweight championship of the city at stake. The two big boys are reasonably fast and pack a wallop of the

$5,000 Southeastern Open to Start Today

Augusta, Ga., March 29 (A.P.).—Pot o' Gold golfers were at the end of their 1930-31 rainbow as they assembled here today for the second annual $5,000 Southeastern Open, tomorrow and Tuesday.

Trekking from California through Mexico and Florida to North Carolina, the professionals doubled back here, to the last of the cash plums yet to be plucked.

The winter tournament season's biggest money is scheduled to be decided in Augusta between Johnny Golden and Gene Sarazen. Sarazen is now atop with winnings of $8,325 to Golden's $7,340.

Business man-golfer George Von Elm has $617 more to his credit than Golden, but he's remaining in the West, where the case has already gone South into knicker pockets.

Umpire Schacht, Hit By Foul Ball, Knocked Out for Ten Minutes

GULFPORT, Miss., March 29. Tragedy came near playing a part here this afternoon in the final Gulf Coast meeting between the Baltimore Orioles and Nationals when Coach Al Schacht, umpiring behind the bat, was hit over the heart by a foul ball. With Roy Van Grafian, the regular umpire missing, Al volunteered to sub for him, using only flimsy catcher's equipment for protection.

In the seventh inning, Infielder James fouled one. Schacht turned to the side and the ball struck him directly over the heart. He slowly went down to the ground and apparently was not breathing when Trainer Mike Martin rushed out to administer first aid. Not being able to bring Schacht to, a doctor was called for and he, fortunately, had his medicine case with him and quickly injected a hypodermic of strychnine.

Schacht was unconscious for fully ten minutes but that he was his same old self again shortly was indicated by his refusal to make use of the ambulance which was called. "I don't want to get in that thing. It'll give me hard luck," he said. While not as full of pep as usual tonight, indications are that Schacht will suffer no ill effects from the blow.

SHORE, HUNT WIN NET TITLES

District Pair Annex Honors in Baltimore Tourney.

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, March 29.—Youthful tennis players from Washington carried off the highest honors in junior and boy ranks in Maryland by winning the final matches of the Evening Sun's Fifth Regiment tournament at the Fifth Regiment Armory today.

Frank Shore defeated Aaron Miller in a stirring five-set duel in the junior engagement, 0—6, 7—5, 2—6, 6—3, 6—4. Gilbert Hunt won from Albert Shapiro in the boys' division in easy fashion, 6—2, 6—2.

Shore's victory is attributable to the fact that his game is developed more fully in the various essential departments of play than Miller's. His drive is not comparable to that of the Baltimorean, but his forecourt skill more than atones for this deficiency. In fact, Shore seemed loath to stroke the ball at all, relying upon a chop and playing to reach the net as often as possible.

Miller Gains Early Lead.

In the first part of the match these tactics were unavailing. Miller astounded the gallery of some 500 spectators by winning the first game at love and gaining a 3-1 lead in the second. But Shore grew steadier as Miller decided he had a lead safe enough to permit some slackening of his efforts. This was disastrous. In short order Shore made it deuce in games, and continued to win the set, 7—5.

Miller returned to his form of the first set to account for the third in handy fashion, 6—2, and ran happily to the dressing room for the intermission rest.

But Shore came out for the two

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

VIRGIL RICHARDSON performs his tire-rolling stunts every day. His job, clerk in a tire store, calls for the frequent moving of tires. Richardson in performing his feat takes care of twenty tires, that are not tied or connected together in any way. When lined up, twenty tires measure something like 13 feet wide, which is a lot of territory to take care of, but Richardson never drops a tire.

Playing in the backfield with Princeton, Wittmer was primarily an interferer, carrying the ball but once in his entire college career. On this occasion he set an all-time record for yardage per rush.

AGUA, CALIENTE, Mexico, March 29 (A.P.).—Robert Tyree Jones, jr., the actor, stepped out of his Hollywood makeup today and for 18 holes became Bobby Jones, the golfer, only to taste defeat with Leo Diegel when Mortie Dutra and George Von Elm defeated the pair, 1 up, in a match for charity.

The burden of the match rested squarely on the shoulders of the champion of champions as Diegel, former P. G. A., champion and local professional, could not get his iron shots working with sufficient degree

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 29 (U.P.).—The New York Yankees were treated to an unpleasant surprise today when they were beaten in the ninth inning, 1 to 0, by the Atlanta Club of the Southern League. Chick Autry beat his former teammates with a single after an error by Ben Chapman started the Cracker rally.

The Yankees collected only two hits, neither of them clean. Henry Johnson got a double when Roy Carlyle in right field thought the fly would drop foul. Chapman got to first when third baseman Land, who knocked down his liner, couldn't get it over in time. About 3,000 fans came out to see Babe Ruth hit a home run. He failed to get a ball out of the infield.

Fred Sington, Alabama football star, will report to the Yankees in Birmingham tomorrow for a two-day tryout in the outfield.

A. A. U. Unlimited Quintets Play Semifinals Tomorrow

Uniteds Play Clovers, Potomac Scholastcis Meet Capital Awnings in Post Tournament Battles at Tech Gym.

WITH two unlimited class semifinals heading the bill, the District A. A. U. basket ball championship, being sponsored by The Post at the Tech High Gym, tomorrow night swings into the stretch drive that will culminate with the deciding of five championships on Wednesday night.

Although the big boys will hold most of the spotlight, there is sure to be plenty of fast action and clean basket ball produced in the remaining three games. In the 115-pound class the Boys Club Optimists will tangle with the University Shop five, the winner gaining the right to compete with the Charlottesville fives on the following night. Another Boys Club team, the 130-pounders, do battle with the Jewish Community Center entry in a game that should produce a snappy brand of play because of the intense rivalry between the two. This brace of games will be played at 7 p. m. One hour later the Saks Clothiers, who have been established as favorites in the 145-pound class, face a team that many fans believe may provide the biggest upset of the tourney, the Wallace Memorial Club. The latter have exhibited a nice brand of passing, which coupled with some expert goal shooting has won them a host of admirers.

The first of the two big tilts gets under way at 9 o'clock with United Typewriter tossers and the Clovers

Johnson Uses Only 2 Regulars; Hayes Gets 3 Hits.

Return of Fast Ball to Marberry Pleasing to Manager.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Post Staff Correspondent).

GULFPORT, Miss., March 29.—The Nats were furnished little competition by the Orioles today and won by an 11-4 margin. The Johnsons forged into a four-run lead in the second frame and had eleven before the Birds had tallied even once. Johnson did not take the game seriously and used only two of his regulars, Ossie Bluege and Sammy West.

The second stringers showed they did not need any help by knicking the offerings of a trio of Baltimore flingers for fourteen hits, including doubles by Harry Rice, Dave Harris, Ossie Bluege, "Pinky" Hargrave and Cliff Bolton. The latter two had perfect averages, Hargrave hitting three for three and Bolton getting two in as many trips to the tee. Jack Hayes also was credited with three clean safeties.

Wally Tauscher, in what might be termed a trial for a Nat berth, came out of the game with flying colors. He pitched for five innings and allowed only four hits, two of which were scratchy and just as well could have been charged errors. In both the first and second innings the Orioles, due to sloppy Nat fielding, had the bases filled with none out and each time Tauscher pitched himself out of the holes.

Today's victory gave the Nats a record of four victories, two defeats and one tie against the Orioles and the series will be completed up North when games will be played in Washington and Baltimore.

Marberry's Fast Ball Returns.

Despite the fact that he walked six men in three innings and granted four runs and three hits while performing against the Orioles at Biloxi yesterday, Pitcher Fred Marberry made quite an impression on Manager Walter Johnson.

"These exhibition games don't mean anything," said the Nat leader, "and even though the box score shows that Freddie was not very effective, he showed me one thing that pleased me greatly and that is that he likely will have that fast ball of his this season. You know, he lost his speed last season for some reason or other and lost some games while he was being convinced that this was a fact and then he lost some more while he was fooling around getting something to take the place of his fast one.

"If what Freddie showed me yesterday is no false alarm, and I don't believe it is, you can put it down right now that he will have another great year for us and that he'll be knocking the bats out of the hands of some of our opponents by the time the pennant race starts."

President and Mrs. Clark Griffith and Umpire Roy Van Grafian left the Biloxi camp this morning for Cleveland to pay homage to their dead chieftain, E. S. Barnard, American League head. The Nat owner will go from Cleveland to Washington, but the "guesser" will hop a rattler and be on hand to officiate in the exhibition games which the Nats play against the Barons in Birmingham Friday and Saturday.

Fidler to Go Back To Minors.

Reports around the Washington camp are to the effect that Pitcher Art Fidler will be left with the Chattanooga Lookouts when the Nationals leave the Tennessee city on April 7. According to Manager Johnson, however, it is believed that the slim Canadian is still too green to make the grade in the Southern Association and he probably will be returned to the Hagerstown team.

Hagerstown has entered the Middle Atlantic League this year and as it is of higher classification than was the Blue Ridge League, in which Fidler performed last season, it is believed that this will give Art a fine chance to develop and to show whether or not he has a chance to ever make good under the big tent.

Joe Kuhel, Capt. Joe Judge's first base understudy, complains that he is not getting enough batting practice this spring and Pilot Johnson has promised to give him more tee practice.

"I've always been a good spring hitter," said Kuhel tonight, "but, of course I've been a regular in the minors and so have had more opportunity to get my batting eye in shape. Give me a little more chance to look at some good pitching and I'll be getting my safe ones regularly."

Jacksonville, Fla., March 29 (U.P.). The World Champion Philadelphia Athletics beat the Jacksonville Stars 12 to 2 today before a crowd of 2,000. Lefty Grove had 9 strike-outs in five innings. Haas and Miller and Rookie Bob Johnson each hit a home run. Dykes and Foxx played though injured.

San Antonio, Tex., March 29 (U.P.). The New York Giants celebrated getaway day today by drubbing the Chicago White Sox, 15 to 8, and taking a 5 to 3 lead in the series before a crowd of 3,500.

Clarence Mitchell hurled the first six innings and yielded two runs, the only runs Chicago has scored off him in twelve innings this year.

Out of respect to the memory of Ernest Barnard and Ban Johnson, the exhibition games scheduled in Dallas and Shreveport for Tuesday and Wednesday have been cancelled.

One Day Left in Baseball Contest

WASHINGTON lost the pennant last year when Chapman spiked Manush, states Norval Pumphrey, of 2341½ Twelfth place northeast, in a letter to the Baseball Editor of The Post. Thus, with but one day left of the box seat contest, Mr. Pumphrey adds his name to the mighty list of fans who have responded to The Post's call for 250-word expressions of where the Nats are going to finish this year.

Yes, Manush's getting spiked was the turning point, and this year will see Washington going on to finish up the job they should have finished last year, writes Mr. Pumphrey. Griffith had nobody worth while to send into Manush's place, and thereby hangs the tale for this year, because Washington now has the finest reserve material in the league, and in Harry Rice, for

SENIOR CAPITAL CITY LEAGUE CLUBS MEET TONIGHT

Banner Year Expected In Class

Olmsted Grill Again Seeks Title; New Teams Enter.

Other Divisions Hold Preseason Meetings This Week.

FOLLOWING the lead set by the unlimited clubs, which organized for the coming season at a meeting last Tuesday, the managers of senior entrants in the Capital City League will gather tonight at 8 o'clock in Room 2, of the District Building, to discuss prospects for another successful season.

Prominent among this year's starters is the Olmsted Grill nine, which was one of the finalists in the play-off for the city title, losing the third game of their intersectional series to the champion C. A., O'Brien Club. "Snitz" Nau, well-known sandlot manager, has again signed to pilot the Olmsted crew in its quest for the flag.

New Blood Promised 1931 Race.

Competition this year promises to be of the keenest sort, with new blood in the form of graduate junior teams adding fight to the race. These new clubs will replace those which have moved up to the unlimited class. Last year found the teams about evenly matched.—A thrilling stretch showing was made by the Majestic A. C., which will compete in unlimited circles this year.

The boys, too, played to larger crowds than ever before in the history of the Capital City League. In one instance an attendance of 1,500 was recorded.

As in the past years, The Post will award gold baseballs, emblematic of the city championship, to the team winning its section title and then defeating the victor in the other bracket. Managers of all teams contemplating entering the Senior division are requested to be on hand promptly at 8 p. m.

Unlimiteds Meet Tomorrow.

Tomorrow night will find the unlimited teams again in session at the same hour and same place. At this meeting the league rules will be discussed and, it is believed, several antiquated ones discarded, new ones being drawn up in their stead.

Beginning with Thursday night the Junior, Midget and Insect managers will gather for their confabs on consecutive nights. The latter meeting will deviate from the usual program slightly, getting under way at 7 p. m. instead of 8 p. m.

—Bowie Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

THE feature of the opening at Bowie today is the Opportunity Purse, 7 furlongs, with six horses entered. All the other races have large fields. Due to heavy rains for two days, a slow track is in prospect. On this kind of course, and on class, the Glen Riddle Farm's SERGEANT DONALDSON, a 3-year-old, which has rested up all winter, is expected to win. He is reported fit. The open winter has advanced horses remaining over the cold season in the East.

The last race of this horse was in a stake at Laurel, won by Siskin, so the class of the Whisk Broom II colt appears much the best. Brookemeade Stable's WEATHERPROOF, which has raced in Florida during the winter, and is especially suited to a wet track, is regarded the contender. In his last race he was third to Kensington. Nevada Stock Farm's entry, ALBAZANO, also a winter racer, is best of the others.

FIRST RACE—P. H. Faulconer's BILL NORA, by Snob II—Noralator, which has never started, and probably will be at long odds, is selected to win this race for 2-year-olds. This selection is on information. William Ziegler's LIMITLESS has been trained to top form, also is a first starter, and is rated contender. JALPUR, which raced well during the Miami winter meeting, is best of the others, at least of the ones that have raced at all.

SECOND RACE—IMA QUEEN should take this purse. She beat Dunrock in her last race, which was at Fort Erie last summer. She has been working well. TONY JOE, a good winter horse, winner of three races at Miami, should be the contender. BOB KARNON is ready and has speed. He is tabbed for third. He beat Pollywog last start at Jefferson Park.

THIRD RACE — Otto Torrell's GILDED ARCH, winner at both Florida tracks, is a standout in the third race. He shipped here in good condition and has been kept in top form. POLYLITH will be at home on the track and should hold the others safe. She was second to Bourbon Maid last out at New Orleans. ZAILA should run well, and may show.

FIFTH RACE — This test is at a mile and one-sixteenth, for 3-year-olds, and up. WORKLESS is picked to win. He has impressed in morning trials and is by Hourless. BUDDY BASIL will like the track, won his last at Jefferson Park, and has several times caught the eye of the judge this winter. ALCMAN may be the favorite on his victory over Prince Takalon at Miami.

SIXTH RACE—This event seems to have a standout in the mare OTILLO, which was second to the fast Foreign Relations in her last race in the South, and as a rule has run in better company than is found in this race. ISOSTASY probably is next best, but will have a dangerous rival for second money in MADCAP MARVIN, which has been at all the Southern tracks.

SEVENTH RACE—Superior Stable's PETER is selected as the best horse in the seventh race. He has impressed the railbirds of mornings at Bowie since coming up from the South. PLAYABIT should be the contender, also from Jefferson Par. JOHN ROBERT has a chance. The horses come from every point of the compass and the form is mixed.

BOWIE MEET OPENS FOR CHARITY

gible for the position because of being a Maryland taxpayer.

The Bowie track now is virtually under control of women, due to Mrs. James F. O'Hara controlling the stock of her husband, whose health has caused his retirement from all business, and Mrs. Gadsden Bryan owns the stock of her late husband, and the two women control the track when they vote together.

Jockeys who have so far obtained riders' badges for the Bowie meeting are M. Meade, B. Tatum, J. Tiner, J. Gianello, Willie Day, Charlie Pegg, F. C. Smith, Jimmy Burke, Johnnie Bejshak, E. Kennedy, E. Watters, E. Barnes, H. Erickson, Henry Erickson, D. E. Froggatte, F. Rielly, F. Coltiletti, M. Berg, P. Remillard, G. McCormick, D. Smith, J. Serio, H. Louman, A. Robertson, A. Jarrett, T. Fowler, R. Watson, J. D. Mooney and R. Morrison. Scores more will draw their badges today. Fred Hayward, secretary of the Maryland Racing Commission, was rushed taking applications for other jockeys, owners and trainers.

Frank Coltiletti, who was engaged to ride today, and who rode Sun Beau in the Agua Caliente Handicap, cancelled his mounts for today. His father is dead at Jamaica, Long Island.

Equipoise will be sent to Havre de Grace in a few days, where he will make his first start of the year.

33 Nominations For Inaugural.

Thirty-three nominations have been made for the $5,000 Inaugural Handicap tomorrow as follows: Raccoon, Dark Abbott, Fortunate Youth, Omareen, Colossal, Gigantic, Pennant Lass, Sandy, Protractor, Hacky H., Levante, Barrido, Illium, Full Dress, Con Amore, Morsel, General A., Druggist, Berber, Prometheus, Essare, Patricia Marian, Thistle Fyrn, Thistle Ann, Pegg's Pride, Blimp, Elizabetth Bolla, Paul Bunyan and Civalog.

Dr. D. Sterritt Gettinga, a director of the Maryland Jockey Club, who went abroad in 1929 to see Howard Bruce's Billy Barton run in the Grand National Steeplechase, said he was impressed by Grakle in that race. "It is customary," he said, "to attach the names of the horses in the Grand National on each side of their blankets, and Grakle's blanket seemed to cover an unusually upstanding, well made horse. Grakle must have fallen in some part of the race, and my attention was directed to Easter Hero at the water jump, the boldest fencer I ever saw. When the field came into view the last time around a big chestnut darted up to Easter Hero and passed him. This was Gregalach. Grakle's victory this year is proof that keeping everlastingly at it brings success.

settling their little argument as to which shall enter the finals. The United machine, composed of such veteran players as Forrest Burgess, Bob Freeman and Al Duryee, is an odds-on favorite to survive this test, although many of the fans are backing the Clovers to be returned victors. The combination of Adkins, Lilly and Aman has kept the Clovers right up in the front throughout the title play, and tomorrow night, aided by the two-day layoff, should be at their best.

The Capital Awning five, boasting one of the most powerful scoring teams to show in the tourney, meets an equally powerful outfit in the Potomac Boat Club Scholastics. Players from both high school and college court squads make up the roster of the boatmen. Such dependables as Noonan, Lieb, Shirley and Kane, of Eastern; McVean, of Catholic University, and Cosgrove, of Gallaudet, are bound to make things uncomfortable for the shade boys.

Fireworks Due Wednesday.

The tournament will be climaxed Wednesday night when the fireworks are sure to crackle. In the junior girls' class the Rockville Club will have it out with the Montrose six. The Charlottesville Fives face the winner of the Boys Club Optimists-University Shop game in the 115-pound division. Als Athletic Club and Eagles Athletic Club, in the senior girls' class, will play for the title, while the winner of the Saks-Wallace Memorial fracas will meet the Colonials in the boys' 145-pound class. The curtain will ring down on the 1931 season with the last title of the night hanging in the balance between the winners of the above-mentioned unlimited semifinals.

Tennis League Planned Here For Junior and Boy Players

Frank Shore and Bill Shreve Lead in Move for Circuit; Meeting to Be Held Tomorrow Night.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

WHAT is looked upon as an important step in the progress of tennis in the District will be taken Tuesday night when the Washington Public Parks Tennis Association will call a meeting of all junior and boy players in the city with a view to the organization of the juniors and boys tennis league.

Preliminary plans of the association call for more than the formation of the league. This year two local juniors and two boys will be chosen by the Middle Atlantic Association to represent it at a new junior and boys tournament to be held at Philadelphia under the auspices of the U. S. L. T. A. on June 5 and 6. The local association believes that by means of a league, or other competitive play between younger players, a better line can be gained on just who the nominees for the Philadelphia trip should be.

There has never been an adolescent tennis league in Washington, and few exist in the United States. Of late years Washington junior tennis has not maintaine dits high standard of 1923-26, and this meeting should be the first step of the renaissance. All young players hereabouts are urged to be present, as is also any other person interested in the development of tennis in the city.

A committee of the local association, headed by Frank M. Shore, jr., three times winner of the District of Columbia junior title, and William O. Shreve are instigators of the meeting. Besides the league and the Philadelphia match, plans will be worked over the staging of intercity matches with Baltimore and the formation of at least two more youthful Washington tournaments. These tournaments will include doubles, a phase of junior tennis not seen in Washington since 1925.

a timely home run by George Grantham, gave the Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League a 4-to-3 victory over the Detroit Americans today. It was Pittsburgh's first win of the four-game contest.

Grantham's homer came in the third inning with the bases empty. Though it ended Pittsburg's scoring for the day, it provided the margin of victory. All eight Pirate hits were made off Vic Sorrell, Detroit right-hander.

Thomas allowed two hits and no runs, struck out two and walked none in four innings. Craighead allowed four hits, two walks and one run in the last five innings. to assist on more than one hole.

Of the other team it was Dutra, youngest of the Dutra brothers, who cut considerable of a swath in California winter money tournaments, who turned the trick which gave him and his business man golfing partner the match.

Dutra Has Card Of 70.

Dutra, a Long Beach, Calif., pro, toured the tough course in an adverse wind in 70, one under par, against 72 for Jones, 75 for Von Elm and 77 for Diegel.

Approximately 2,500 were in the gallery, netting $5,000 at the gate. Fifty golf balls signed by the quartet were auctioned off for approximately $300 more. The first of these sold for $100 and the second for $65, with Diegel wielding the auction hammer, but the rest sold for much less. From this sum must be taken the expenses, as yet undetermined. The remainder will go to charity, with Atlanta, Ga., San Diego, Tiajuana, Mexico, and Mexicali, Mexico, each getting one-fourth of the money.

NET STOCK LOSSES AVERAGE 8 POINTS

Week's Bearish Activities Erase Most of Gains Made in February.

New York, March 28 (A.P.).—Bulls fought a losing battle in the stock market this week.

Their lines finally yielded under the cumulative effect of shrinking dividends, discouraging earnings reports and estimates, and constant bear hammering.

The list held up fairly well on Wednesday and Thursday, when it was subjected to such developments as dividend reductions by Anaconda, Westinghouse Electric, and Baltimore & Ohio, but finally gave way decisively on Friday, and in Saturday's short session, experienced one of the sharpest breaks of the year.

Loss Averages 8 2-5 Points.

The week's net loss in stocks, as measured by the price index of 90 representative shares, was 8 2-5 points, the largest for any week since December. About two-thirds of the extreme rise of February has now been lost. Trading was in small volume all the week until late Friday.

The bond market was rather unsatisfactory. Money stiffened a little, as Government deposits were withdrawn from banks to meet veteran loan demands and for other purposes. The call loan rate touched 2 per cent on Thursday, but was back to 1½ on Friday.

The investment market was primarily influenced by unfavorable railway earnings statements for February, however, which brought considerable selling into the second-grade carrier liens. Foreign issues were unsettled by the announcement of the Peruvian default.

The announcement that the Farm Board would discontinue its open-market efforts to stabilize wheat was received with welcome in most financial quarters, where uneasiness has been felt over the Government's mounting losses on its grain holdings. Income tax payments have fallen below expectation, and a large Treasury deficit looms. Heavy Government borrowing in the investment market is expected in the next few months. An offering of $100,000,000 in bills is being made next week.

English Banker on Visit.

The visit to New York of Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, is watched with keen interest in financial quarters, but these visits back and forth of the heads of central banks have become an established practice, and discussions are regularly kept secret. An important concern of European bankers at the moment seems to be over when Wall street expects to resume its role as the leading world capital market.

It is felt that our holdings of about half the world's monetary gold supply places a responsibility upon us which can not be dodged if world economics are to function properly.

Particularly unsettling to the stock market appears to have been the check in the expansion of steel mill activity for the first time since the first of the year. How important this may be can not be estimated as yet. The opinion is still firmly held in most quarters that the business cycle has touched bottom and is turning upward, but it is recognized that there are likely to be minor setbacks along the way.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, March 29 (A.P.).—In sharp contrast to last week's total of $54,900,147 in new municipal bond awards, the total scheduled to be awarded this week is only $8,581,418, representing the needs of 53 communities, the Daily Bond Buyer reports. The weekly average for the year to date is $38,526,522. The only two items of major size listed are $1,000,000 St. Paul, Minn., 4½ per cent general improvement bonds to be sold Wednesday, and $1,000,000 State of Idaho tax anticipation notes on the same day.

The Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. has been awarded a contract for all the electrical equipment for the Navy dirigible ZRS-4, now under construction by the Goodyear Zeppelin Corporation in Akron, Ohio. This equipment includes generators, an emergency motor-generator set and control, a switchboard for the control of the power circuits, radio equipment, including radio compass and facsimile transmitter; electric motors for driving fuel pumps and electric motors for driving the mechanism for lowering and raising the antenna. Westinghouse also has received an order from the Boston Elevated Railway for a $35,000 kilowatt turbine generator.

Offering is scheduled tomorrow of $8,145,000 City of Chicago 4 per cent gold bonds, due serially 1932 to 1947, inclusive, at prices to yield 4.10 to 4.30 per cent; $1,750,000 of the Toronto, Hamilton & Buffalo Railway Co. consolidated mortgage 4½ per cent bonds, Series A, maturing August 1, 1966, at 99 and interest to yield about 4.55 per cent; $1,650,000 First Mortgage Marine Equipment 6 per cent sinking fund bonds of the Sensibar Transportation Co. of Chicago, maturing March 15, 1943, at 99 and accrued interest; $1,000,000 Minneapolis Gas Light Co. first mortgage 4½ per cent gold bonds, due 1950, at 93¾ and interest to yield over 5 per cent.

Net Income Off 90 Per Cent.

Boston, March 28 (A.P.).—The Gorham Manufacturing Co., of Providence, silversmiths and goldsmiths, today reported for the fiscal year ended January 31, net income after Federal taxes and other charges of $112,731. This compares with net income of $1,182,235 the previous year.

SPECIALTIES CHEER HEAVY CURB MART

Profit Taking Is Active and Liquidation Appears to Depress Prices.

New York, March 29 (A.P.).—Developments discouraging to the cause of higher prices weighed down the curb market last week, despite the strength displayed by a number of specialties in the earlier sessions.

Prices reacted to their lows for the current swing during the last three trading days and shares that had been most prominent in the advance showed the largest losses. Profit taking was active; there also appeared to be some liquidation by holders who did not like the dividend reductions announced by a number of prominent industrial and railroad companies.

Aluminum of America and Parker Rust Proof, two of the highest fliers in the interval of the specialties' prosperity, broke sharply. Cord Corporation, whose asset value had been boosted substantially by the strength of Auburn Auto, made a new high and then backed up slowly. Cord was recently supposed to hold about 90,000 shares of Auburn, but whether it disposed of part of its interest at the higher levels attained by that fast mover was not divulged.

Utilities withstood pressure until the Friday market when they were actively sold, repeating well below their recent highs. The thoroughly deflated oils were listless, although still unable to offer much resistance to such offerings as appeared. Metal stocks softened with the uncertainty over prices, although Noranda was well supported most of the week.

Investment trusts were irregular. Goldman Sachs Trading touched a new high but lost its rise. United Founders was soft.

Bethlehem Steel's Assets Decrease, Report Reveals

New York, March 29 (A.P.).—The pamphlet report of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, issued today, showed a decrease of $68,802,151 in current assets at the end of 1930, as compared with the close of 1929, due to decreases in cash, marketable securities and receivables.

Total current assets as of December 31 last were $159,369,624, against $228,171,775, as of December 31, 1929. Cash at the end of 1930 was $22,935,689, compared with $29,325,704 at the end of 1929. Inventories as of December 31 last showed an increase to $74,878,966 from $69,147,204, as of December 31, 1929. Total assets were $719,760,397, compared with $801,631,362.

Net income for the year, as previously reported, was $23,843,406, equal to $5.26 a share on the common stock, compared with $42,242,980, or $11.01 a common share, in 1929. The report pointed out that net income available for dividends last year was the largest earned by the corporation for any year since the war, with the exception of 1929.

Operations during the year averaged 61.7 per cent of capacity, against 91.8 per cent in 1929. The average number of employes last year was 60,993, and total wages were $108,301,185, compared with an average of 64,316 employes and total wages of $124,958,674 for 1929.

The report pointed out that the funded debt December 30 was $117,528,600, compared with $237,142,264 at the end of 1924, a reduction of $119,613,664.

Concerning the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., the letter said:

"Under date of March 12, 1930, an agreement was entered into covering the acquisition by your corporation, directly or through subsidiaries, of all the properties and assets of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. in consideration of the assumption of all liabilities and obligations of Youngstown.

"This included $72,000,000 principal amount of its first mortgage sinking fund 5 per cent gold bonds, series A, together with $15,000,000 in cash to be paid to the holders of the preferred shares of Youngstown and one and one-third shares of the common stock of your corporation for each share of Youngstown, of which there were approximately 1,200,000 outstanding.

"The validity of this agreement was attacked by a group of minority stockholders of Youngstown and its consummation was enjoined by the Court of Common Pleas of Mahoning County, Ohio. This decision has been appealed."

Mann Feels That Effort Will Be Rewarded After Many Years.

KING COBRA HAS BULL SNAKE FOR CELLMATE

Pheasants and Parrots Are Being Removed From Evans Collection.

The National Zoo is making its annual effort to hatch a condor egg, Dr. William Mann director, revealed yesterday. Almost annually the condors present the zoo with one or more eggs, and just as yearly an effort is made to hatch them, always up to now without success.

As the condor is an almost extinct bird, their eggs are extremely valuable. The market price is somewhere around $700 just for the eggs themselves. Naturally a condor biddie, or whatever a young condor is called, would be almost priceless—hence the auxiliary over the incubation of the birds' annual present.

Last year an embryo was formed in the egg placed in an incubator, so Dr. Mann feels that there is always some hope that eventually he will be able to have one of the eggs hatched.

Throngs Still Attend.

A fairly warm day drew throngs to the Zoological Park yesterday. The reptile house has lost none of its attraction, it appears, although it has now been open for some weeks. Crowds were still lined three deep around the various exhibits, as is always the case on fair Sundays.

The noted king cobra again drew his share of attention, for he has a cell mate now. It is a long bull snake, which was placed with him for the purpose of providing him, with a good feed.

Crawls Around Inclosure.

The bull snake spends most of his time crawling around the glass inclosure seeking, perhaps, a means of egress. However, the keeper of animals says that the bull snake's fear of death is groundless, for it is not believed the cobra will eat the bull snake.

He has eaten twice since he came to the 5/00, and both times he chose choice specimens of black snakes. The keeper does not believe he will eat again until another black snake is presented him. Incidentally, after his first two meals the cobra shed his skin and now appears in new spring raiment.

Collection Being Moved.

Part of last week was spent in moving some of the pheasants and parrots from the Victor J. Evans collection at Acclimation Park to the National Zoo. Mr. Evans willed his collection of birds and animals to the zoo at the time of his death.

Dr. Mann plans to make a special exhibit of the Evans collection at the bird house, and this collection has already been started. Other birds and animals at Acclimation Park will be moved to the zoo as fast as space can be provided.

Workmen are busy erecting pheasant runs of copper wire for the Acclimation Park birds. Later the zebras and elands and other animals will be moved to the National Zoo.

JOHN GALSWORTHY TO LECTURE IN APRIL

English Writer to Be Honored by Community Institute; Play Is Planned.

John Galsworthy, distinguished English author, novelist and playwright, will be honored here during the month of April by the Community Institute of Washington, which will present Galsworthy in person in a lecture entitled "Six Favorite Novelists," on April 11, in Constitution Hall; and by the Community Drama Guild, which will present a Galsworthy play, "Windows," on April 23 and 24, in McKinley Auditorium with an outstanding cast of Washington players.

The Galsworthy lecture is an extra attraction offered by the Community Institute, following the completion of the regular season last week, when Sinclair Lewis was the speaker of the occasion.

Special interest attaches to Mr. Galsworthy's appearance here, as it is announced to be his final lecture tour of America, where he has been an outstanding lecturer for a number of years.

For more than three decades, he has been well known to the reading and play-going public on both sides of the Atlantic with a wide and enthusiastic following.

As a literary artist, Mr. Galsworthy stands supreme, not only because of the rare quality of his books, but because he sees contemporary life with a clear vision, and has dealt effectively with its meaning and purpose. "He will bring to the Capital City, a message eminently wise, witty, constructive, and sane," according to many persons interested in sponsoring his appearance, (among whom one is Dr. John Cabell Wilkinson, executive secretary of the Maj. Pierre Charles L'Enfant Memorial Association).

MACARTHUR PRAISES FLAG TOUR PROJECT

of peace or for the restoration of peace after it has been lost by statesmen or by others.

"I wish you every success in your great undertaking."

Col. Moss, organizer and now president general of the United States Flag Association, is also a soldier, graduate of West Point and veteran of three wars, retiring about seven years ago. Since that time, officials of the Flag Association point out, he has given practically his entire time to the work of the association, serving without salary and spending considerable of his private means in the interest of the association.

So far as is known, this is the first movement of the kind to bear the indorsement of the President of the United States, the Vice President and all members of the Cabinet, just as the United States Flag Association is the only patriotic organization of which the President of the United States is the honorary president general.

Not only is the movement indorsed by the present governmental heads, but also by former officials—men prominent in industry and finance—throughout the United States, professional men of the highest standing, and high-ranking Army, Navy and Marine officials.

Interest in the contest now being conducted in the public and private high schools of the city by the Flag Association, with the cooperation of The Washington Post, to select two Washington "envoys of friendship" for the good-will European trip was at fever heat yesterday. Students who have entered the contest are writing essays, the boys on "The Typical American Boy" and the girls on "The Typical American Girl." These essays, on which depend largely the preliminary selections, consisting of one boy and one girl from each school, must be in the hands of the teachers by tomorrow noon.

Last-minute entries and entrants who are anxious to get every possible point into the 200-word essay kept the telephones of the United States Flag Association busy again yesterday, although they have been repeatedly informed that the Flag Association does not answer questions over the telephone and that all instructions are published first in The Washington Post. Helps for the oral quiz which is to accompany the preliminary test April 11 can be obtained from a booklet, "The American Flag, Its Glory and Grandeur," obtainable at any library, it was pointed out.

Following the closing time for the handing in of essays tomorrow at noon, and while the essays are being marked, the students will be given a chance to prepare for further examinations which await the successful essayists on April 11.

Officials of the Flag Association are preparing a series of short paragraphs pertinent to some of the subjects, especially the one of national patriotism, on which the contestants will be examined, and which will be published each day in The Washington Post. These will not be prepared in any other form, and the only method of obtaining this information will be through the columns of The Post.

Cox's Condition Satisfactory.

Miami Beach, Fla., March 29 (A.P.).—The condition of former Gov. James M. Cox, of Ohio, who underwent an appendix operation here yesterday, was reported to be satisfactory today.

OPERETTA PLANNED BY GIRL RESERVES

Program Will Start April 9 at Barker Hall; Play Is "The Toy Shop."

The Girl Reserves of Washington will present their fifth annual spring operetta in Barker Hall of the Young Women's Christian Association headquarters, Seventeenth and K streets, on April 9, 10 and 11, under the direction of Mrs. Alice Sigworth Morse, drama director; Miss Mary M. Burnett, music director, and Miss Mabel R. Cook, Miss Dorothea MacDowell and others of the Girl Reserve Department of the Y. W. C. A.

The season's play will be "The Toy Shop," and more than 100 girls from the senior high schools in the city and from George Mason High School at Alexandria, Va., will take part. Only one tiny grade school reserve, Jeannette Russell, will appear in a prominent role in the piece.

Rehearsals have been going on for the past month, and the entire cast of players, singers and dancers will begin daily rehearsals this week in preparation for the three performances, one of which (on April 9, at 2:30 o'clock) will have an audience "by invitation only," comprising children from Noel House, Friendship House, St. John's Orphanage, St. Ann's Infant Asylum, Washington Home for Foundlings, German Orphan Asylum, Hillcrest, Neighborhood House, Baptist Home for Children, Swartzell Methodist Home, Episcopal Home for Children, and the Masonic and Eastern Star Homes for Children.

For the past four years the Girl Reserves have presented a children's fantasy each spring as their contribution to the musical development of the boys and girls of the Capital City. Previous operettas have been "Marenka" in 1927; "The Pied Piper of Hamelin" in 1928; "Cinderella" in 1929; and "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" in 1930.

"The Toy Shop," by Jessie L. Gaynor, will be presented in two acts, with special settings and costumes now being completed under the direction of committees of the Girl Reserves.

Man Injures Hand in Auto Door.

Roy Satterfield, 28 years old, of 1713 L street northeast, was treated at Casualty Hospital yesterday for the partial amputation of a finger on his left hand, received when his hand was caught in the door of his automobile while he was working in the rear of his home. Physicians said he would not lose the use of the finger.

Sermons will tell of the significance to all the world of the last travail of the Saviour; prayers will eulogize the strength and unflagging faith displayed in His sufferings, and song nad music will intensify the sacred beauty of this most impressive period in the history of Christianity..

Weather Is Invigorating.

Easter, which will disperse the darkness of the last days of agony, was anticipated yesterday by the crowds that filled the srteets and churches. Invigorating weather, tempered by sunshine, formed an agreeable background for colorful new hats and coats. The city was filled with visitors.

Large crowds visited Washington Cathedral on Mount St. Alban, the Franciscan Monastery in Brookland and the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception at Catholic University. Blessing of the palms featured services at the Catholic churches.

Palm Sunday Procession.

A Palm Sunday procession took place at 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning from Thirteenth and T streets northwest to the Men's Bible Class of the Shiloh Baptist Sunday school at Ninth and P tsreets northwest. J. H. Smiley, evangelist from Louisville, Ky., and J. R. Moss, teacher of the class, led the silent march.

Services will be held each day this week at 12:30 o'clock at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, of which the Rev. Joseph R. Sizoo is pastor. Bishop William F. McDowel lwill preach. Dr. Sizoo will conclude his Lenten sermons at 11:30 o'clock Wednesday in the ballroom of the Mayflower Hotel.

Tenebrae Services Wednesday.

Tenebrae services will be held Wednesday in Catholic churches. These services are symbolical of the darkness that gathered about Christ before his crucifixion. The churches are found in a subdued light, illuminated only by candles, when the services begin. The candles are extinguished, one by one, until all is in darkness. These services are held in the late afternoon.

Thees services continue on Thursday. On Good Friday the three-hour agony services are held in the Catholic churches.

Three-hour services are also held on Good Friday in the Episcopal churches. Holy Communion will be held every day during Holy week. The Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, will conduct the passion service at 12:30 o'clock on Good Friday at Washington Cathedral.

Dr. Buhrer Portrays Advantages of Faith

Confirmation Class Told to Know All Would Destroy Life's Zest.

Addressing the representatives of his confirmation classes of the past 26 years, Dr. J. D. Buhrer, of the First Reformed Church, said:

We stood on the S. S. Baltic in the early morning, the American coast rapidly passing out of vision, when a copassenger remarked: "No, mother, that is not Ireland, nor over there the coast of France. It is simply the horizon where the sky seems to meet the water."

How true to life! If we could see the end of tomorrow or next year, all zest would be taken out of life. Just then the glowing rays hove into sight over the eastern sky. If there is anything more beautiful this side of heaven, I've not seen it. Who must the painter or rather the Creator of such a picture Himself be? But thus He daily paints pictures for each of us, and then rubs them out, as though it did not matter. Why? In order gradually to enlarge our capacity for the scenes of things that shall be. Where is heaven or hell? Just at the end of a well or misspent life.

"If it were not so I would have told you," said the Master. If beyond the shades of time there awaited you strangeness, loneliness or homelessness, "I would have told you so." If in the maze of mystery mortal eye has not seen there were anything startling or frightful, "I would have told you so." If there were the slightest reason for doubt or fear, "I would have told you so." If there were shadows of uncertainty regarding the hereafter, "I would have told you so." But since all is well there is nothing to be said.

No news is good news. Had Jesus, that last night, spoken to them of heaven, they would not have understood Him, in their Judaistic shade of thought. Should He now speak of it, to you and me, whose conceptions are distorted by rapt interest in matter and things, machinery and books, name and fame, we would not understand Him. So He says nothing.

There is a time when talk only makes confusion. In this speechlessness Jesus gave this silent promise—every provision has been made, every need anticipated, when your soul ventures into yonder world, just beyond a thin veil, in the twinkling of an eye, you will be abundantly satisfied in the Father's house. "If it were not so I would have told you." Of all the golden silence, there is none so golden as this. "If it were not so I would have told you."

But this involves a stupendous principle—Jesus has scrupulously revealed all we need of the kingdom. Every circumstance, disappointment, need and requirement is met. "I have told you so." In vivid, rigid language He told them the sacrifices needed—"except ye repent ye can not see the kingdom;" "Follow me;" "He that is not with me is against me;" "Worship the Lord and Him only;" "If ye do these things ye shall know;" "Forsake not your assembling one with another;" "I in them and Thou in me that the world may know that Thou hast sent me."

There never was a way more narrow than Christ's way to the Father. Riches, success, pride and conceit are tremendous obstacles to our generation. "Let him that standeth see to it lest he fall." His treatment of the rich young man was severe. "Do you know the commandments?" "I've kept them from youth up." "If this is true then see whether your heart does not depend rather on what you have than on what you think you are." "Sell all you have and follow me." And the young man turned away.

Note His words to the Syro-Phoenician woman. "Bread is given to children, not to dogs." And to His mother, "Woman, what have I to do with thee?" You may have tried to soften down these terms, but there they are. Nothing is concealed that is unfavorable to know in order to be a Christian. "If it were not so I would have told you."

Friends, you all had your definite instructions before the memorable day when you, at this altar vowed eternal allegiance to Christ. "If it were not so I would have told you."

Let me conclude with a doctor's experience. He was about to depart from the sick-room when the patient said: "Doctor, am I going to get well? Don't treat me like a child; tell me the truth." The doctor answered: "Well, you may recover this time but another such attack may prove fatal." "Then, Doctor, tell me what is on the other side." Quietly the doctor answered: "I do not know."

"What, you do not know?" said the patient. Just then the doctor, who was at the door, heard whining and scratching on the other side, and as he opened the door, his large dog sprang into the room. Turning to the patient, he said: "Did you notice the dog, he has never been in this room, nor did he know what nor who was inside, nor did he care as soon as he saw me, whom he had expected to find."

"I know little of what is on the other side of life, but I know one thing. I know my Master is there and that when that door shall open, I shall pass in fearlessly and with gladness, for I know Him, and so all is well with this life and the next." "If it were not so I would have told you."

ARMED CARS ESCORT BURKE TO MICHIGAN

Much-Sought Alleged Killer to Be Tried in Death of Policeman.

St. Joseph, Mich., March 29 (A.P.).—Fred Burke, arch criminal, was brought to St. Joseph tonight. Two armored cars of Michigan officials bearing him roared into town at 8:30 p. m.

Burke was hurried through jostling crowds jammed before the old red brick county jail and hustled into a cell in the most remote and best guarded section of the structure.

The trip from St. Joseph, Mo., took fifteen hours.

St. Joseph, Mo., March 29 (A.P.).—Fred Burke, the "most dangerous man alive," left here for Michigan today in custody of two automobile loads of heavily armed officers from that State. The officers left with Burke at daylight.

It was believed the automobile caravan was headed for the Michigan State Prison at Jackson. Detective Lieut. George Waterman, of the Michigan State police, one of six officers who had Burke in charge, said last night the prisoner probably would be housed in the prison pending trial of the murder charge.

Both of the automobiles in which the party left here were powerful machines, and the early departure indicated the officers hoped to reach Michigan tonight. One of the sedans was an armored type, inclosed by bullet-proof windows.

Wife Brings Clothing.

Before leaving his cell, where he was placed by officers who rushed to Milan farmhouse after a tip the man known as Richard F. White was the much-sought killer, Burke received some freshly laundered clothing from his wife in Kansas City. The 20-year-old bride of a year visited her husband at the jail yesterday.

She professed no knowledge of his alleged criminal career and said she believed him to be a real estate man.

Officers assert Burke, who also is sought in connection with numerous robberies, and at least a dozen killings, changed his name and hid away in the peaceful Missouri farm community near Milan shortly after Patrolman Skelly was shot and killed in Michigan.

There he met and wed Bonnie Porter. For several months the couple had lived in Kansas City, where his wife said he absented himself on frequent business trips. Last week Burke had gone to the home of his father-in-law to obtain personal effects for removal to Kansas City when he was captured.

Handcuffed to Captors.

Burke, 37-year-old killer, sought in connection with the 1929 St. Valentine's Day machine-gun murder of seven Moran gangsters in Chicago, is being returned to St. Joseph, Mich., for trial on a charge of murdering Patrolman Charles Skelly there. Governor Caulfield of Missouri yesterday honored a requisition for Burke, made by Michigan.

The alleged killer, arrested Thursday at the farm home of his father-in-law, Barney Porter, near Milan, Mo., was handcuffed to the accompanying officers. He was rushed from the city jail here at 5:25 a. m. and ducked his head to avoid a battery of cameras aimed in his direction by newspaper photographers and was driven hurriedly from the scene.

AX-SLAYING DETAIL PUZZLES DETROIT

Confession to 19-Year-Old Crime Denies Killing of 2 of 8 Victims.

Detroit, March 29 (A.P.).—Detroit police today awaited word from Iowa authorities as to their attitude toward a confession to homicide squad detectives of a 19-year-old ax murder, which was rich in detail, but was rather puzzling in that the admitted killer was in error as to the number of persons slain.

The confession was made in the county jail here by Leroy Robinson, alias George Meyers, 48 years old, convicted burglar, who admits he has been in jail most of the time since 1916. Robinson, questioned in connection with the crime because of an anonymous letter to police, admitted that June 9, 1912, he killed Joseph Moore, his wife and their four children in Villisca, Iowa. The confession omitted any reference to the killing in the same house of two visitors, both daughters of Joseph Stillinger. Detectives were questioning him late today.

Robinson's written confession described the crime as follows:

Found Ax in Back Yard.

"I found an ax in the back yard. About midnight I went to Moore's house and with the blade of the ax pried open a window, either in the pantry or the kitchen.

"I went to the second floor, where I found Moore and his wife sleeping in the first bedroom I came to. I hit Moore with the blunt end of the ax. The woman, sleeping by him, moved. I thought she was waking up and I hit her on the head, the same way I did the man.

"Then the devil seemed to take possession of my soul and led me to other parts of the house. The next victims were two small children. I believe they were girls, about 6 or 8. I struck each with the blunt end of the ax and then I went to the third room, where two older girls were sleeping.

Slayer Terror-Stricken.

"I struck one with the ax, and the second one raised up and said, 'Oh, my God, mamma,' or something. I don't remember just what. I hit her on the head with the ax also. I then became terror-stricken. I believe I left the same way I entered and threw the ax away."

Detectives, after questioning Robinson again late today, announced that he reiterated his confession but denied the killing of the two daughters of Stillinger.

They said Iowa officers were expected to come here tomorrow, bringing pictures of three persons suspected of having hired Robinson to kill the Moore family.

Des Moines, Iowa, March 29 (A.P.).—Some doubt was cast today by Iowa officials on the admission of Leroy Robinson, alias George Meyers, at Detroit that he committed the Villisca ax murders in 1912.

J. E. Risden, chief of the State bureau of investigation, pointed out that, whereas Robinson said he carried away the ax, it was in reality left on the scene and is now in the possession of officers here.

Robinson's story will be investigated by Iowa authorities, it was said.

EXPORT DEBENTURE IS URGED BY GRANGE

Farm Board's Withdrawal From Wheat Purchases Is Cited for Need.

(Associated Press.)

The National Grange yesterday reaffirmed its advocacy of the export debenture for disposition of agricultural production surpluses.

"The need for additional machinery," the executive committee of the grange said in a statement, was emphasized zy the Farm Board announcement that it would not attempt to stabilize the 1931 wheat crop.

"Although definite figures are not available," the committee said, "it is altogether probable that if a moderate rate of export debenture had been in effect during the past year, the returns to the farmer would have been greater, the cost to the Treasury would have been less, and we would not now be burdened with such a price-depressing carry-over."

The volume of wheat on hand, the committee continued, together with "the centainty of continuing surpluses, indicate the imperative need of providing adequate machinery to make possible orderly marketing of farm products."

"The National Grange has given the Federal Farm Board its heartiest support in its efforts to develop coooperative marketing agencies," it added, "and will continue to do so, but believes that recent experience has demonstrated that in the marketing of our farm surplus, the export debenture or similar machinery is essential."

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

OVER THE BOUNDING WAVES.

GAR WOOD drove a motorboat the other day 102 miles an hour for a new world's record. With nobody chasing him!

* * * *

One hundred and two miles an hour in a boat! And people still talk of the tranquil and unhurried life at sea!

* * * *

Motorboating used to be considered a form of loafing. People took to the water when they weren't in a hurry to go anywhere. They considered it a restful recreation. When you stepped into a boat in the old days the one thing you had no further use for was a watch.

* * * *

And now look at the darned sport!

* * * *

Our modern motorboat builders have created a condition under which modern yachtsmen think the test of a good boat is how little leisure they can get in it. If it keeps them on the water more than a few split seconds it's old-fashioned.

* * * *

You can ruin the modern boat enthusiast's day by telling him he forgot to bring a stop watch.

* * * *

When the first powerboat was produced the big selling point was that it gave the owner an opportunity to get away from the killing pace of life ashore When you showed off from the pier in one of those old-timers you knew you might be gone anywhere from a day to a week.

* * * *

Once you put out in the motorboats of yesterday you were practically listed as a missing person.

* * * *

THE first requirement of a yachtsman was that he consider time no object. He had to be a gentleman of leisure. It sometimes took 48 hours to start the engine. Nobody was in any hurry.

* * * *

Then came Gar Wood with the fixed notion that it should be possible for a man to go out in a powerboat and get home before he had changed to such an extent his relatives wouldn't recognize him.

* * * *

Not so many years ago six miles an hour in a motorboat was considered reckless navigation You had to look at the wake to realize you were moving. Then the search for speed began and it has continued until today it is possible to make 102 nautical miles in one hour.

* * * *

(You can tell a nautical mile from a land mile by a very simple test. If you drive a mile without seeing any drug stores, cigar shops or pumping stations it's a nautical mile.)

* * * *

These new speedboats really travel by a series of leaps. They go so fast they leave a wake of hot water. They can get between two points in less time than it took the old-timer to crank his engine.

* * * *

Consequently life at sea is getting highly hazardous. In another summer it may be necessary to install marine traffic lights and one-way channels.

* * * *

We may even have hit-and-run boatmen.

Father of 7 May Lose Home After Getting Coveted Job

John Murphy Makes Appeal Through The Post to Avoid Being Dispossessed Before He Can Get His First Pay.

John Murphy, a lifelong resident of Washington and father of seven children, will have a job today for the first time in four months, but at 10 o'clock this morning deputy marshals will arrive at his humble home on I street near Seventh street southeast to dispossess him because of overdue rent, it was learned from Mr. Murphy last night.

Mr. Murphy has appealed to his rental agent to give him time to accumulate enough money to pay off some of the rent, but he says that the agent refuses to wait any longer. The rental agent explains that pressure has been brought to bear on him by the owner of the house. He has told Mr. Murphy that he will be satisfied with one month's rent.

But Mr. Murphy says he has only a few cents to his name. "Why for the last week we haven't had but $2 worth of food in the house," he said after coming to The Post to appeal for aid.

The youngest child was born five days ago, and the mother is confined to bed. The oldest child, a 17-year-old girl, is a helpless invalid. The other children go to school.

Mr. Murphy is a tinner by trade. He has had occasional work in the past four months, but nothing steady, he said. Last week, he succeeded in being employed by Arthur Martin, of 12 Third street northeast. He is assured of three months employment, and is capable of making $6 to $7 a day, he said.

"But what is the use of a job," he asked, "when a man is to be put out of his house with his wife and children?"
